

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

PREFACE TO THE FORMER EDITION.

It was at first the design of the translator to introduce the subject of his present labours with a minute inquiry into the life and character of that venerable being, the most beautiful of whose numerous productions he has here endeavoured to place in such a light, as should entitle them to more general acquaintance than heretofore. From the performance of this intention he has been withheld by the unexpected bulk to which the volume has extended, through the addition, not originally contemplated, of the Manual for the Sick. The necessity of this omission he has now the less reason to regret, since, in addition to the copious Memoir introduced by the Rev. S. H. Cassan into his Lives of the Bishops of Winchester, the valuable Life of Andrews, by his Friend and Amanuensis, Henry Isaacson, first published in 1650, incorporated the year following into Fuller's Abel Redivivus, and reprinted by John Trotter Brockett, Esq. of Newcastle, in 1817, has been lately edited with much diligence by the Rev. Stephen Isaacson, a lineal descendant of the writer.

Yet something it will be necessary to premise on this head, not merely to gratify the reader's inquisitiveness as to the history of the author and his work, but because many allusions occur throughout the latter, wholly inexplicable without a reference to the corresponding passages in the former.

Lancelot Andrews was born in the year 1555, in the parish of All-Hallows Barking, London. His father, who was master of Trinity House, and descended from an ancient and religious family in Suffolk, left his son in circumstances of respectability and comfort. The first rudiments of his education he received under Mr. Ward, in the Coopers' Free-School, at Ratcliffe; from whence he was removed to Merchant Tailors', at that time under the care of the celebrated Richard Mulcaster. Here his proficiency in the learned languages recommended him to the notice of Dr.

Thomas Watts, Prebendary of Westminster, and Archdeacon of Middlesex, who had just founded some scholarships at Pembroke Hall, Cambridge, and who bestowed upon young Andrews one of the earliest of those exhibitions.

Having proceeded to the degree of Bachelor of Arts, he was chosen, in 1576, a Fellow of his College, in preference to Mr. Dove, afterwards Bishop of Peterborough. Meanwhile, Jesus College, Oxford, had been founded by Hugh Price, who also appointed Andrews without delay to one of his Honorary Fellowships. As Master of Arts he now applied with signal success to the study of theological literature; and, independent of his reputation as a preacher and a casuist, the Lectures on the Commandments which he read, as catechist, to the undergraduates, procured him the admiration not only of his own associates, but of the University at large.

His next engagement was to accompany Henry, Earl of Huntingdon, President of the Council of York, into the north; where, by his zeal and eloquence, he gained over many recusants to the cause of Protestantism. From this circumstance his temporal advancement may be dated; for Sir Francis Walsingham, Secretary of State to Queen Elizabeth, hearing of his talents and activity, and unwilling that such deserts should linger in obscurity, bestowed on him the lease of Alton Parsonage, Hants, and afterwards procured for him the Vicarage of St. Giles's, Cripplegate, in London. He was soon after nominated a Canon Residentiary of St. Paul's, and Prebendary of the Collegiate Church of Southwell. On the death of Dr. Fulke, in 1589, he was chosen Master of Pembroke Hall, to which institution he afterwards became a considerable benefactor. He was chaplain in ordinary to Archbishop Whitgift, as well as to the Queen; the latter of whom appointed him, about the year 1595, a Prebendary of Westminster, and Dean about six years afterwards. He had also the honour of twice refusing a bishoprick in this reign, because he would not submit to a proposed alienation of their revenues from those of Salisbury and Ely, which were both offered to him.

The popularity of Dr. Andrews progressively increased under the patronage of James the First, by whom he was commended to the see of Chichester, and to the office of Lord Almoner, in 1605; and further chosen to vindicate his sovereign against the malice and sophistry of his enemies. James, in his Defence of the Rights of Kings, had asserted the authority of Christian Princes over all causes and persons, ecclesiastical as well as civil. Cardinal Belarmin, under the title of Matthew Tortus, attacked the King without scruple; but was answered by Andrews with much spirit, research, and judgment, according to Casaubon, in the Tortura Torti, published in 1609, and dedicated to his majesty. In reward for this good service, the writer was created a Privy Counsellor of England and Scotland; translated, the same year, to the see of Ely; and finally, in 1618, to that of Winchester; which, together with the Deanery of the Chapel Royal, he continued to hold, under favour of Charles the First, till the day of his death; an event which terminated a pious and valuable life of seventy-one years, on the 25th of September, 1626, at Winchester House, Southwark. His remains lie interred in the parish church of St. Saviour, under a handsome monument of marble and alabaster, erected by his executors, and distinguished by an appropriate inscription, in excellent Latin, from the pen of one of his chaplains. This monument was repaired in 1764; and on the bones of the departed prelate being accidentally disturbed, not many years ago, to make room for another corpse, the hair of his beard and his silken cap were found, among the relics of his coffin, undecayed.*

* In Taylor's Annals of St. Mary Overy, (1833, 4to.) the assertion here made is shewn to be inconsistent with the fact, that in 1830, on the removal of a chantry, which stood on the eastern side of the Lady Chapel connected with that venerable fabric, (now partly restored, and partly destroyed!) the coffin of the Bishop, bearing his initials, L. A., on the lid, was found unopened. Being not only made of lead, bandaged with a frame of iron, and attached by rings of the same material to a cross of brick-work, but closely and firmly entombed under an arch of stone, the coffin had sufficiently resisted the ravages of time to be carefully replaced in its cell, while the monument above was transferred to the back of the altar-screen.—P. H. 1839.

Such was the useful and honourable career of this most worthy father; and many have been the testimonies adduced to his virtues and attainments.—In acts of piety, and devotional labour, both public and domestic, it were almost impossible to name his superior; and of the purity of his heart abundant evidences survive in his writings, too disinterested to be mistaken for the fruit of any less holy motive. “His life,” says a writer in the Scholar Armed against the Errors of the Time, “was, in a great measure, a life of prayer; and his book of Private Devotions, composed in Greek and Latin for his own daily use, was, towards the conclusion of his life, scarcely ever out of his hands. In the time of his fever and last sickness, besides the prayers which were often read to him, in which he repeated the Confession and other parts with an audible voice so long as his strength served, he did, as was well observed by certain tokens in him, continually pray to himself, though he seemed otherwise to rest or slumber; and when he could pray no longer with his voice, by lifting up his eyes and hands he prayed still; and when they failed, he still prayed with his heart.” Bishop Horne, alluding to the same volume of Devotions, says, “The manuscript was scarce ever out of his hands: it was found worn in pieces by his fingers, and wet with his tears.” In the Diary of Archbishop Laud, he is emphatically denominated “The Light of the Christian World;” and that remarkable man is even represented to have adopted his private Ritual in administering the ceremonies of the church. With still more energy he is characterised by the editor of his Holy Devotions, as “Doctor Andrews in the schools, Bishop Andrews in the pulpit, and Saint Andrews in the closet.”—His charity was great, even when he was poor; but in the days of his wealth it grew to be unbounded: he released the prisoner from his cell, he clothed the naked, he fed the hungry, he gave medicines to the sick. All this he did without even the lawful hope of gratitude; for those who received his alms were never made acquainted with the giver: and his will, of which some portions will be found in Gutch's Collectanea Curiosa, evinces the desire he entertained to extend his benefactions, when personally removed from all further chances of acknowledgment.—His integrity in the various offices confided to his charge was incorruptible; and it is believed that the sums he was appointed to distribute in the name of others, were ever secretly augmented by his own private bounty. What opinion Lord Clarendon held of his honesty and fidelity may be gathered from the remark he makes, in recording the decease of Archbishop Bancroft, that “If he had been succeeded by Bishop Andrews, or any man who understood and loved the church, that infection would easily have been kept out, which could not afterwards be so easily expelled.” And a greater compliment could hardly have been paid by a more upright man, than that of an Elegy, from the pen of Milton, on a prelate, the avowed defender of regal prerogative. Usury, simony, and sacrilege, were the three crimes which above all others he abhorred; ascribing to them most of those evils which had at various seasons afflicted and disgraced the church.—In witness of his gratitude, it is known that he bestowed on Dr. Ward, the son of his first school-master, the valuable rectory of Bishops-Waltham, Hants; that to Mr. Mulcaster he always manifested the most respectful regard, and placed his portrait over his own study-door; and that he caused the Fellowships he founded at Pembroke Hall, Cambridge, to be first supplied out of the Scholarships endowed at the same college by Dr. Watts, and bequeathed a perpetual provision for the kindred of his early patron.—His bounty induced him to receive the applications of strangers in distress with a perpetual welcome; while the splendour of his entertainments to King James, both at Farnham Castle, and in his journey into Scotland, procured him a reputation for hospitality unparalleled but in the royal progresses of that monarch. And whatever office he undertook, whatever mansion he inhabited, he was sure to leave in a better condition than that in which it came into his hands.—His affability and condescension not only won him the esteem of all who entered into his presence, but engaged him in correspondence with many of the first scholars at that day in Europe; particularly with Cassaubon, Cluverius, Vossius, Grotius, Peter de Moulin,

Barclay, and Erpenius.—In reference to his literary attainments, he is called by Boisius, in the preface to his Collation of the Old Interpreters, “A stupendous miracle and oracle of our age; in languages a Mithridates; in arts an Aristotle; and so in his own person embracing all accomplishments, that while others have been content with one, he has in himself comprised them all.” In the Conference of Hampton Court, his name stands first upon the list of those, to whom the new translation of the Bible was committed; and it is asserted by Buckeridge, Bishop of Rochester, who preached the sermon at his funeral, that he was competent to the reading of no less than fifteen languages.—In his pastoral and episcopal duties, he was exact and indefatigable; searching at the universities for young men of promise, and rewarding them according to their proficiency and diligence. Presiding, as visitor, by his station in the church, over several colleges and public schools, he exerted himself to maintain impartiality in the elections and presentations of those societies.—Yet with these, and many other tokens of a Christian disposition, let not his humility be overlooked, in the motto he selected, at his consecration, to be engraven on his seal, from 2 Cor. ii. 16. “Who is sufficient for these things?”

And now, to adopt the language of his first Biographer, “let us lay all these together: his zeal and piety; his charity and compassion; his fidelity and integrity; his gratitude and thankfulness; his munificence and bounty; hospitality, humanity, affability, and modesty; and to these his indefatigability in study, and the fruits of his labours in his sermons and writings, together with his profundity in all kinds of learning; his wit, memory, judgment, gravity, and humility; his detestation of all vices and sins, but especially of three; and consider, whether the Church of God in general, and this in particular, did not suffer an irreparable loss by his death.”—Isaacson's Memoir, 1829. pp. 56, 7.

Till the very last year of his life the perceptions of his great mind continued unimpaired, and his diligence unabated. "He was not often sick," continues Mr. Isaacson; "but once, indeed, till his last sickness, in thirty years before the time he died; which was at Downham, in the Isle of Ely. But there he seemed to be prepared for his dissolution, saying oftentimes in that sickness, "It must come once; why not here?" and at other times, before and since, he would say, "The days must come, when, whether we will or nill, we shall say with the Preacher, (Eccles. vii. 1.) I have no pleasure in them."—p. 57.

"After the death of his brother, Mr. Thomas Andrews, in the sickness-time, whom he dearly loved,"—(the anecdote is from his funeral sermon,)—"he began to foretell his own death before the end of summer, or before the beginning of winter. And when his brother, Mr. Nicholas Andrews, died, he took that as a certain sign and prognostic, and warning of his own death. And from that time, until the hour of his dissolution, he spent all his time in prayer, until it pleased God to receive his blessed soul to himself."

To return once more to the pages of his amiable Amanuensis. "As he lived, so died he. As his fidelity in his health was great, so increased the strength of his faith in his sickness: his gratitude to men was now changed into his thankfulness to God; his affability, to incessant and devout prayers and speech with his Creator, Redeemer, and Sanctifier; his laborious studies, to his restless groans, sighs, cries, and tears; his hands labouring; his eyes lifted up; and his heart beating and panting to see the living God, even to the last of his breath. And him, no doubt, he sees face to face, his works preceding and following him, and he now following the Lamb, crowned with that immortality, which is reserved for every one who lives such a life as he lived."—pp. 57, 8.

At what period of his ministry the contents of the ensuing pages were composed, can scarcely be at this time ascertained. The Manual for the Sick he is generally supposed to have employed in the visitation of his parishioners at St. Giles's, Cripplegate: but that the Private Devotions were written, or at least in some parts modified, at a later day, is evident from his allusions to the young Prince Charles, to the preferment he had himself already vacated, and to that which he then held, particularly the diocese of Winchester. It is certain, however, that no portion of these compositions appeared in print during the life-time of the author. But the publication of "some broken parcels" of both the Manuals, in English, with "crude additions, miserably defaced by a careless press," induced Dr. Richard Drake, in the year 1648, to give a translation of the first, or Greek, portion of the Private Devotions, as well as of the whole Manual for the Sick, from a Greek transcript, presented to him by Mr. Samuel Wright, who had written them out on purpose for the Bishop; and which he collated with another MS. as well as with the printed book. Prayers for the Morning, Evening, and Holy Communion are also announced on the title-page of this edition, but are not to be found in the body of the work. It was reprinted in 1675, and several times subsequently. The version of the former part is literal and correct, and has been found highly serviceable on the present occasion; many titles and citations, with a few additions in the text, are also furnished by Dr. Drake. The original MS. of the Manual for the Sick appears never to have been published; and if not deposited on the shelves of some public library, is probably lost for ever. But the original of the Private Devotions was published at Oxford, in 1675, in two parts; the former in Greek and Latin, the latter in Latin only. Both parts are printed from Dr. Drake's copy; and the Greek text is compared, moreover, with a collection issued a short time before, by Dr. William Stoke, the Bishop's Chaplain.* This volume was reprinted about two years ago, with many corrections in the references, by the present translator.

* Such is the nomenclature preserved in the Preface to the Greek and Latin edition of 1675. It so happens, however, that the writer has recently obtained a copy of a scarce little volume, entitled, "Verus Christianus, or Directions for Private Devotions and Retirements;" containing, in the Appendix, "Some Private Devotions of the late learned Bishop Andrews, never before extant;" Oxford, 1668, 12mo. But here, the name of the author or compiler is not William Stoke, but David Stokes. In the Preface to the Appendix, he makes mention of the Bishop, as "the chiefest guide and encourager of his studies;" but while

In 1730, appeared a new translation of the first part of the Private Devotions, without the Manual for the Sick: executed by Dean Stanhope, and published, after his decease, by his friend the Rev. John Hutton, of King's College, Cambridge. In this version the most unauthorized liberties are taken with the text, both by omission and by interpolation; and the greater portion of the citations are left out. It is, in fact, the Manual of Dean Stanhope, and not that of Bishop Andrews. Such as it is, however, it was re-edited by Bishop Horne, while Dean of Canterbury, with some enlargement, but without any references at all; and is now one of the books recommended on the list of the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge.†

The object of the present version is to restore the two Manuals of Bishop Andrews to their original form and purity; to renew what has been deteriorated, and to supply what has been suffered to fall away. The First Part of the Private Devotions has been rendered as literally as the occasional mutilations of the text would allow. The Second Part is acknowledged to be, in the original, exceedingly disjointed and incomplete: such portions, therefore, have been selected from it, as had neither been left in unintelligible confusion, nor repeated from the preceding part. Every reference has been again scrupulously compared with the passages alluded to; some hundreds rectified and supplied; and the meaning of many expressions elucidated by comparison with the old, or liturgical, version of the Psalter. Those points which refer to the peculiar concerns of the

he justifies himself "in the use of such choice papers of his, as may be found out," and gives extracts, in Hebrew, Greek, Latin, and English, to the extent of more than forty pages out of sixty, he affords no information relative to the history of his materials, but that "he had received them from several hands, and laid them together, to be ready for the use of others."—P. H. 1839.

† A new edition of the same version, with numerous references, a Preliminary Memoir of the Author, and an Essay on Closet Prayer, was published by the Rev. Barton Bouchier, M.A. of Balliol College, Oxford; 1834, 12mo.—P. H. 1839.

writer's family and situation, are retained, chiefly as matters of curiosity; they will be easily altered to an agreement with the wants and circumstances of the reader.

"By the best judgment I can make of this book," says Mr. Hutton, in his Preface, "Bishop Andrews appears to have collected, from time to time, in the course of his reading, materials for every part of prayer; which he wrote down, some in Greek, and some in Latin. These at first were chiefly hints; but out of them he composed several prayers, that he used privately in his closet, and some of them publicly in the Church, before sermon, having translated them into English. Many of these prayers were completely finished, and used by him as forms; in others he left some hints, not quite completed, but wherein it was easy for him to supply all that was wanting, as he used them. These he varied often, as occasion and necessity required, and improved them by degrees. Such of them as were brought nearest to perfection, he wrote in Greek; either because the New Testament, Septuagint, and most ancient Fathers and Liturgies (whence he extracted a great deal) were in that language; or because that language has some advantage for devotion, as the many compound words it contains, strengthen the ideas they convey to us, and make a more lively impression upon the mind."

"Dean Stanhope," he continues, "who often used these devotions in the original language, and had committed a good part of them to his memory, was so well pleased with them, that he took the pains to translate what is contained in the following sheets, for the use of a dear friend, to whom he apprehended they would be acceptable and serviceable. They gave so great satisfaction, and did so much service, not only to that friend, but to all those into whose hands the copies came, that the Dean resolved, I suppose at their desire, to print them."

Among the posthumous papers of Bishop Horne, besides a corrected copy of Dean Stanhope's Version, was discovered one, now probably lost, which, if published at the time, might have superseded some portion of the present translator's labours. "In the copy published after Dean Stanhope's form," says the Rev. William Jones, in his Memoirs of that Bishop, "The Manual for the Sick, though the best thing extant upon its subject, is wholly omitted; but in the posthumous manuscript I speak of, the whole is put together, with improvements by the compiler; and I wish all the parochial clergy in the nation were possessed of it."

To supply, in some measure, this public loss, has been now, with conscious incapacity, attempted. In lack of the original composition, no other resource presented itself to the editor, but carefully to compare the references, inserted by Dr. Drake, and such others as occurred to himself, with the authorities referred to; so that, if in any instance the words of Bishop Andrews should be lost sight of, those of a greater authority than he, and one to which he ever bowed himself with the deepest humility, might be substituted in their stead.

At the conclusion of this Manual will be found two prayers, extracted from a MS. volume in possession of the publisher, and containing, among other devotional formularies, a great number of those compiled by our author. It is subscribed, "November 13, 1643; in the second year of the civil war of England; by T. N."

Of the other works of Lancelot Andrews, the best known are his Sermons, first published in 1628, fol. of which seventeen have been edited by the late Archdeacon Daubeny; seven, on the Temptation, by the Rev. William Kirby; and nineteen, on Prayer, have been just announced by Mr. Edward Williams. "He was, without exception," says the writer before quoted, in the Scholar Armed, "the first preacher of his time; and his discourses and lectures, though somewhat obsolete from their antiquity in style and manner, are yet so excellent for the truth, learning, eloquence, and piety, found in them, that when we have laid down rules for a preacher, no character can be produced, in which they were better exemplified." He was also author of an Exposition on the Ten Commandments, 1642, fol.; Posthumous and Orphan Lectures, 1657, fol.; and Holy Devotions, with Directions to Pray, of which the fourth edition appeared in 1655, and the fifth in 1633, 12mo.* He is supposed to have had some hand in the Chronological History of Mr. Isaacson; of which an enlarged and corrected edition is promised by the same gentleman, who has just republished his Memoir of the Bishop. His Miscellaneous Works were printed in a 4to. volume in 1629, by order of Charles the First, to whom they are inscribed by Laud Bishop of London, and Buckeridge of Ely, the contemporaries and friends of the deceased. In the library of Trinity College, Dublin, is preserved a MS. volume, in Latin, attributed to Bishop Andrews, on the Form of Government in the Old and New Testament; a disquisition on which subject, in English, is appended to the volume of MS. Prayers, before alluded to, though printed at Oxford, in 1641, fol. And as it is not impossible there may be other remains of the same gifted writer in other collections, though hitherto unknown or unappropriated, it may be well to mention that facsimiles of his autograph appear in Mr. Whitaker's History of Craven, as well as in the recent collection by Mr. Nichols.

Original paintings of Bishop Andrews are preserved at Pembroke Hall, Cambridge, and in the Bodleian Gallery at Oxford. His engraved portraits are very numerous; 1st, by Simon Pass, as Bishop of Ely, 1616; 2nd, by the same, as Bishop of Winton, 1618, copied by Vertue; 3rd, by Payne, prefixed to his Sermons and Exposition of the Commandments, copied for Drake, and for the present volume; 4th, by Hollar, in Sparrow's Rationale of the Common Prayer, copied by Loggan, for the Preces Privatee, 1675; by Simpson, for Stanhope; and by Walker, for Mr. Isaacson's reprint.

But it is now time to close this introduction, and admit the reader to the enjoyment of a devotional exercise, prepared for his soul's health and edification. "The heart, already enlightened and inflamed," says Mr. Hutton, "with piety and charity, will here find something exactly suitable to its inward motions, and the most significant and beautiful words, wherein to utter its holy desires, and those gracious sentiments, which, without this help, would perhaps break forth with less advantage, and less accuracy both of method and expression. But the less perfect Christian, who has not yet made so much progress in the school of piety as the former, may reap still greater benefit from this work. It will tend to improve him in knowledge and practice; it will be, to such, an excellent Catechism, as well as a Prayer Book; he will here find the Commandments and the Creed, and other important points of Christian instruction, explained and applied with great judgment, and no less perspicuity than brevity; so that they may be soon learnt, and easily remembered. He may here be led to form just notions and holy desires, such as cannot but have a considerable influence on his prayers and his manners. He will be put in mind of the variety and greatness of his sins, and of his wants; of the holiness, the mercy, and the goodness of God, and the many invaluable benefits he heaps on mankind. In short, by a serious and proper use of this Manual, he will perceive himself to advance apace in love to God and man, and every other Christian grace and virtue."

* This little volume was first published in 1630, under the title of Institutiones Pie; the three first impressions having the signature, H. I. (conjectured to be Henry Isaacson) subjoined. A new edition is just announced by the Rev. W. H. Hale, Preacher of the Charter-House.—P. H. 1839.

Approach then, pious reader, (be it permitted to exclaim,) with a teachable and contrite heart; and the Spirit of God be with thee. "Enter into thy closet, and shut thy door (Matt. vi. 6.); pray with Bishop Andrews for one week; and he will be pleasant in thy life; and at the hour of death he will not forsake thee."

DAILY
PRAYERS AND MEDITATIONS.

PART THE FIRST.

"The best arrangement of all our conversations, and of all our actions, is to begin with God, and to end in God."—Gregory Nazianzen.

"Think not lightly of thy prayers, for He who heareth them thinketh not lightly of them; but even before they are passed from thy lips, He hath them written in His own book. And one of these two things we ought steadfastly to hope: that He will grant either that which we desire, or that which He knows to be more profitable to us."—St. Bernard.

LET us bless thee for our godly princes, orthodox prelates, the founders of this sacred institution.

Glory be to thee, O Lord, glory be to thee : glory be to thee, because thou hast glorified them, for whom we also glorify thee.

MORNING PRAYER.

GLORY be to thee, O Lord, glory be to thee : glory to thee, who hast given me sleep to refresh my weakness, and to alleviate the labours of this fragile flesh.

That this day, and every day, we may pass in the perfecting of holiness, (2 Cor. vii. 1.) in peace, health, and innocence,

Grant us, O Lord.

That the angel of peace, our faithful guide, the guardian of our souls and bodies, may encamp round about us, (Psalms xxxiv. 7.) and continually suggest what is needful for our salvation,

Grant us, O Lord.

The pardon and remission of all our sins and all our transgressions,

Grant us, O Lord.

To our souls what is good and profitable, and to the world peace,

Grant us, O Lord.

That we may accomplish the remainder of our lives in penitence and godly fear, in health of body and peace of mind,

Grant us, O Lord.

Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report ; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, (Philip. iv. 8.) that we may think on these things, and do them,

Grant us, O Lord.

A Christian termination of our lives, free from sin and shame, and, if such be thy pleasure, free from pain, and a good account of ourselves before the dread and terrible tribunal of our Lord Jesus Christ,

Grant us, O Lord.

(See Liturgy of St. Chrysostom.)

O BEING, above all beings, O uncreated Nature,

To me, the chief of sinners ;—1 Tim. i. 15.

To me, a greater sinner than the publican,

Be merciful, as to the publican.

O FATHER of mercies,
I beseech thee by thy fatherly bowels of compassion, (1 John iii. 17.) despise me not,
An unclean worm;—Psalms xxii. 6.
A dead dog;—2 Sam. ix. 8.
A stinking carcase.—John xi. 39.

—Matt. viii. 2. 8.

AND THOU, my Saviour, Christ,
O Christ, my Saviour,
Saviour of sinners, of whom I am chief;—1 Tim. i. 15.
Despise me not,
Despise me not, O Lord.
Despise not the purchase of thine own blood,
The pledge of thine own name;
O Lord, despise me not.
But rather look on me with those thine eyes,
With which thou lookedst
On Mary Magdalene at the banquet,
On Peter in the High Priest's palace,
On the malefactor upon the cross;

That, with the malefactor, I may humbly call upon thee,

Lord, remember me in thy kingdom :—Luke xxiii. 42.

With Peter, I may weep bitterly, (Matt. xxvi. 75.) and say,

O ! that mine eyes were a fountain of tears, that I might weep day and night ;—Jer. ix. 1.

BEHOLD, thou art wroth; for we have sinned.—

our righteousnesses are as filthy rags; and we all

Be mindful of thy holy church, from the one end of the earth unto the other; grant it thy peace, for thou hast purchased it with thy precious blood, (Acts xx. 28.) and so establish it even unto the end of the world.

Be mindful of those who bring forth fruit and do good works in thy holy churches; and those who are mindful of the poor and needy, repay thou with thy rich and heavenly gifts: give them,

For earthly things, the blessings of heaven;

For corruptible, those that fade not;

For temporal, those that endure for ever.

Be mindful of those who devote their lives

To virginity, abstinence,

And religious seclusion;

As of those also, who dwell together

In honourable wedlock

Under thy godly fear.

Be mindful of every Christian soul

Under affliction, oppression, or tribulation,

And consequently in need of thy mercy and assistance;

Of our brethren also who are
In captivity or in prison,
In bonds or bitter servitude ;
Granting to the wanderer a safe return, ,
Health to the sick,
And freedom to the slave.
Be mindful of all pious and faithful princes,
Whom thou hast ordained to rule over the earth.
And especially be mindful, O Lord,
Of our king, thy servant ;
Strengthen his empire,
Subdue to him all his enemies,
Speak to his heart such good things
As shall be profitable to thy church and people :
Grant him profound and uninterrupted peace,
That, under his happy government,
We may lead a quiet and peaceable life
In all godliness and honesty.—1 Tim. ii. 2.

BE mindful, O Lord,
Of all principalities and powers ;
Of our brethren in the state,
Of our leaders in the council and on the bench,
And of all who fight thy battles for us
By land or sea.
Furthermore, be pleased to remember, O Lord,
Our spiritual fathers,
The venerable order of priests,
And the whole clergy,

Who rightly divide the word of truth,—2
Tim. ii. 15.

And walk uprightly in the same.—Gal. ii.
14.

Be mindful, O Lord, of our brethren,
Be mindful of their zeal and devotion,
Who stand around, and join our prayers,
At this sacred hour.

Be mindful of those, also,
Who from causes unavoidable are absent;
Have mercy upon them, as upon us,
According to the multitude of thy mercy.
Fill our garners with all manner of store,—
Psalms cxliv. 13.

Preserve our families in peace and concord:
Cherish our infants,
Instruct our youth;
Sustain the aged,
Comfort the feeble-minded;—1 Thess. v. 14.
Gather the dispersed,
Reclaim the wandering,
And unite them to thy holy, catholic,
And apostolic church.

Release all that are vexed with unclean spirits,
Accompany the voyage of those who sail,
And the journey of those who travel.
Defend the cause of the widows,
And be a father of the fatherless;—Psalms lxviii. 5.

Set the captives at liberty,

And heal the sick.
Be mindful of all criminals at the bar,
Of those in exile, at the mines, and at the galleys;
Of those in affliction, necessity, and distress;
And of all who need thy loving-kindness.
Be mindful of those who love us,
And of those who hate us;
And of those who charge us, unworthy as we are,
To remember them in our prayers.
And of all thy people be mindful,
O Lord our God;
Pour upon all the riches of thy mercy,
And grant them all things needful unto salvation.
And remember, O God, of thine own accord
Those whom we have failed to mention,
Whether through ignorance, or forgetfulness;
For they are many in number:
But thou knowest the name and condition of each;
Thou knowest every one from his mother's womb.—Jer. i. 5.
Thou, O Lord, art the helper of the helpless,
The hope of the hopeless;
The pilot of the tempest-tossed,
The haven of them who sail,
The physician of the sick.
O, make thyself all things unto all men;—
1 Cor. ix. 22.

For thou knowest man and his desire,
His habitation and his wants.
Deliver, O Lord, this city,
And all the country wherein we dwell,
From plague, famine, earthquake, and deluge,
From fire and sword,
From hostile invasion, and civil war.
Appease the schisms of the churches,
Abate the fury of the heathen ;
Receive us all into thy kingdom,
Owning us for children of the light ;—Col. i.
12.

And grant us thy peace and love,
O Lord, our God.
O Lord God, be mindful
Of all spirits and of all flesh,
Which we have named, and which we have not named.
As to us, direct, O Lord,
Direct the period of our lives in peace,
That our death be that of Christians,
Acceptable unto thee,
And, if it be thy pleasure, free from pain.
Gather us together under the feet of thine elect,
When thou wilt, and as thou wilt,
Only without shame and sin.

THE glorious majesty of our Lord be upon us :
Prosper thou the work of our hands upon us,
O, prosper thou our handy-work.—Psalm

AN ACT OF INTERCESSION.

From the Liturgies of St. Chrysostom and St. James.

LET us pray, in the peace of God, for peace from above, and for the salvation of our souls :

For the peace of the whole world ; for the stability of the holy churches of God, and the union of them all :

For this holy house, and those who enter it in faith and reverence :

For our holy fathers, the bishops ; for the venerable presbytery, for the deacons ministering in Christ, and for the whole clergy and laity :

For this sacred residence ; for all the city and country, and for the faithful who dwell therein :

For temperature of the heavens, for plenteousness in the fruits of the earth, and for seasons of peace :

For all who travel by land or by water ; for the sick, the troubled, and the captive ; for their health and safety :

Help us and save us, pity and protect us by thy grace, O God.

Neither do we forget to bless and praise thy name, for that holy, immaculate, and blessed Virgin Mary, the mother of JESUS CHRIST ; and for all thy Saints ;

After whose example let us commend ourselves, and one another, and our whole life, unto Christ our God ;

For to thee, O Lord, belong glory, and honour, and worship.—Rev. iv. 11.

THE grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, the love of God, and the fellowship of the Holy Ghost, be with me, and with us all. Amen.—2 Cor. xiii. 14.

AND now I commend myself, my friends, and all that is mine, unto him that is able to keep me from falling, and to present me faultless before the presence of his glory;

To the only wise God, our Saviour; to whom be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and for ever. Amen.—Jude, 24, 25.

 Many a time and oft,
 And many a year, till now ;
 For all the benefits I have received,
 For all my undertakings which have prospered ;

AN ACT OF PRAISE.

From the Liturgy of St. James.

MOST gracious God, who didst not despise nor abandon man after he had transgressed thy law, and fallen ;

But like an indulgent father didst visit him in many ways ;

Giving him thy great and precious promise of the seed of life ;—Gen. iii. 15.

Opening to him the door of faith and repentance unto life ;—Acts xiv. 27.

And in the fulness of time sending the same thy Christ, (Ibid.) to take on him the seed of Abraham ;—Heb. ii. 16.

And by the oblation of his life to fulfil the obedience of the law ;

And by the sacrifice of his death to take away the curse thereof ;

By his death to redeem the world, and by his resurrection to restore the same unto life :

Thou who doest all things to bring back mankind to thee, that he may be made partaker of thy divine nature, and share thy everlasting glory ;

Who hast borne testimony to the truth of thy gospel by numerous and manifold signs ;

By the ever-memorable conduct of thy saints ; by their miraculous endurance of tortures ; by the astonishing conversion of the whole world unto the obedience of the faith, without the aid of arms, of eloquence, of power;

Blessed, and praised, and celebrated, and magnified, and exalted, and glorified, and hallowed be thy name, thy memory and mention, and every memorial of thy love, both now and for ever.

THOU art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof; for thou wast slain and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood, out of every kindred and tongue, and people, and nation;—Rev. v. 9.

Worthy is the Lamb, that was slain, to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing.—Verse 12.

AN ACT OF CONFESSION.

O MY God, I am ashamed and blush to lift up my face to thee ; for mine iniquities are increased over my head, and my trespass is grown up unto the heavens.—Ezra ix. 6.

Since the days of my youth I have been in a great trespass unto this day, (Verse 7) neither can I stand before thee because of this.—Verse 15.

From the Prayer of Manasses.

I HAVE sinned above the number of the sands of the sea ; my transgressions are multiplied ; and I am not worthy to behold and see the height of heaven for the multitude of mine iniquities :

Neither can I take my breath ; for I have provoked thy wrath, and done evil before thee ; I did not thy will, neither kept I thy commandments.

Now, therefore, I bow the knee of my heart, beseeching grace of thee.

I have sinned, O Lord, I have sinned, and I acknowledge mine iniquities ; wherefore, I humbly beseech thee, forgive me, O Lord, forgive me, and destroy me not with mine iniquities.

Be not angry with me for ever, by reserving evil for me ; neither condemn me into the lower parts of the earth.

For thou art the God, even the God of them that repent, and in me thou wilt shew all thy goodness ; for thou wilt save me that am unworthy, according to thy great mercy.

Therefore I will praise thee for ever, all the days of my life.

Of that his intercession, and of those his unutterable groanings, make me partaker, O Lord.—Rom. viii. 26.

Our fathers trusted in thee ; they trusted, and thou didst deliver them.—Psalm xxii. 4.

They cried unto thee, and were delivered ; they trusted in thee, and were not confounded.—Verse 5.

As in the old time thou didst deliver our fathers, so likewise deliver us, O Lord, who put our trust in thee.—Psalm xxxiii. 11.

Thou shalt open my lips, O Lord, and my mouth shall shew forth thy praise.—Psalm li. 15.

A FORM OF THANKSGIVING

For Temporal and Spiritual Blessings.

MY soul doth magnify the Lord,—Luke i. 46.

Because he hath dealt favourably

With all his creatures,

With all mankind.

Because he hath shewed mercy unto me,

With regard to my soul, my body, my means of life,

In the gifts of grace, of nature, and of the world.

With regard to all the benefits I have received,

With regard to the many undertakings
Wherein I have succeeded and do succeed.

With regard to any benefit I may perhaps have conferred on others.

I praise God

For my	{	health, reputation,
		contentment,
		safety,
		freedom,
		peace.

Thou hast not cut off, like a weaver, my life, while it was yet beginning : neither hast thou made an end of me from day even to night.—Isaiah xxxviii. 12.

Thou hast given me life and breath even to this hour : from my childhood and my youth until now ; even until old age and grey hairs.—Psalms
lxxi. 15, 16.

Hold my soul in life, and suffer not my foot to be moved.—Psalms lxvi. 9.

For thou hast delivered me

From	{	Dangers,
		Diseases,
		Poverty,
		Servitude,
		Public shame,
		Evil accidents.

Thou hast not given me up to perish in my iniquity, but ever waited for my conversion: and thou hast still left in me

Communion with my heart;

A remembrance of the four last ends,
Of death, of judgment, of heaven, of hell;

Some shame, and horror, and remorse

For my sins past:

O, that I felt it more and oftener, more and oftener, Continually more vehement, O Lord!

And thou hast given me good hope for the remission of my sins, by repentance, and by the works of repentance, by the power of the holy keys, and of the sacraments administered in thy church.

So that, from day to day, for these thy mercies vouchsafed to me, which I forget not; and also for many more forgotten by reason of their number and my unmindfulness;

Conferred on me,

Whether ~~knowing~~, willing, and asking;

Or neither ~~asking~~, willing, nor knowing;

For all of them

I confess and offer thanks to thee;

I bless and praise thee daily, as is meet;

I pray unto thee with all my soul;

I pray unto thee with all my mind.

Glory be to thee, O Lord,

Glory be to thee;

Glory be to thee,
And glory to thy most holy name,
For all thy heavenly attributes :
For thy unspeakable and incomparable goodness, and thy mercy toward sinners and the unworthy ; even unto me the most unworthy sinner of all.
For these, and for all thy other mercies,
Be glory, and honour, and praise,
And blessing, and thanksgiving unto thee,
With the voices, and concert of voices,
Of angels and of men,
And of all thy saints in heaven,
And of all thy creatures in heaven and earth ;
And beneath the feet of all,
From me, a worthless and miserable sinner,
The poorest of thy creatures ;
Now, on this day, at this hour,
And every day unto my latest breath,
Yea, unto the end of the world,
And for ever and ever. Amen.

O SPIRIT, who dost regenerate,

Destroy not him whom thou hast regenerated.

Remember not, Lord, my offences, nor the offences of my forefathers, neither take thou vengeance of our sins, whether theirs or mine. HOSANNAH IN THE HIGHEST :

A Supplication for Spiritual Blessings.

REMEMBER me, O Lord, with the favour that thou bearest unto thy people ;

Visit me with thy salvation ;

That I may see the good of thy chosen ;

That I may rejoice in the gladness of thy nation ;

That I may glory with thine inheritance.—

Psalm cvi. 4, 5.

BUT there is a glory that shall be revealed ;—
1 Pet. v. 1.

For there be some who, when the Judge cometh, shall see his face with joy ;—Job xxxiii. 26.

Who shall be set on his right hand, and hear that most sweet voice,

Come, ye blessed !—Matt. xxv. 33, 34.

Who shall be caught up to meet the Lord in the clouds ;—1 Thess. iv. 17.

Who shall enter into his joy ;—Matt. xxv. 21.

Who shall enjoy the vision of him ; who shall ever be with him.—1 Thess. iv. 17.

These only, only these, are blessed among the sons of men :

O ! give to me, the meanest of them all, the meanest place beneath their feet, beneath the feet of thine elect, of the meanest of them.

AND to this end, let me find grace in thy sight, that I may have grace, whereby I may serve thee

acceptably, with reverence and godly fear.—Heb. xii. 28.

But let me also find this other grace, that I receive not that grace in vain, (2 Cor. vi. 1.) nor fall short of it :—Heb. xii. 15.

Much less that I neglect it,—1 Tim. iv. 14.

So as utterly to fall from it ;—Gal. v. 4.

But that I stir it up,—2 Tim. i. 6.

So as to grow in it ;—2 Pet. iii. 18.

Nay, that I continue therein—Acts xiii. 43.

To the very end of my life.

And O, perfect that which is lacking—1 Thess. iii. 10.

Of thy graces :

1. Of Faith ; increase my slender faith :—Luke xvii. 5.

2. Of Hope ; confirm my trembling hope :—Heb. iii. 6.

3. Of Charity ; kindle the smoking flax thereof.—Matt. xii. 20.

Shed abroad in my heart the love of thee,—Rom. v. 5.

That, like unto thee, I may love

My friend in thee,

My foe for thy sake.

O thou who givest grace unto the humble,—James iv. 6.

Give me also grace to be humble.

O thou who never failest them that fear thee, let my heart rejoice to fear thee,—Psalms lxxxvi. 11.

My fear and my hope ;—Job iv. 6

One thing only let me fear, that I fear any thing more than thee.

As I would that men should do unto me, may I also do unto them :—Luke vi. 31.

Nor let me think of myself more highly than I ought to think, but think soberly.—Rom. xii. 3.

Give light to them that sit in darkness and in the shadow of death : guide our feet into the way of peace :—Luke i. 79.

That we may walk uprightly ;—Gal. ii. 14.

That we may edify one another ;—1 Thess. v. 11.

That we may with one mind and one mouth glorify God.—Rom. xv. 6.

Nevertheless, if in any thing we be otherwise minded,

That, whereto we have already attained, we may walk by the same rule ;—Phil. iii. 15, 16.

That we may do all things decently and in order, —1 Cor. xiv. 40.

And with steadfastness of faith.—Coloss. ii. 5.

HOSANNAH UPON EARTH :

A Supplication for Temporal Blessings.

REMEMBER, O Lord, to crown the year with thy goodness.—Psalms lxxv. 11.

For the eyes of all wait upon thee, and thou givest them their meat in due season.—Psalms cxlv. 15.

Thou openest thine hand, and fillest all things living with plenteousness.—Verse 16.

And vouchsafe unto us, O Lord,
The precious things of heaven, the dew from above ;
The blessing of the fountains of the deep from beneath ;
The courses of the sun,
The circuits of the moon ;
The heights of the mountains of the East,
Of the ancient hills ;
The blessings of the earth, and the fulness thereof.—Deut. xxxiii. 13, 14, 15, 16.

Vouchsafe unto us
Seasons of fertility, temperature of atmosphere,
Abundant supplies of corn and fruits,
Health of body, and days of peace ;
Upright rulers, and a prosperous government ;
Equal laws, and righteous judgments ;
Honesty in our judges,
Obedience in the people,
Fortitude in the magistracy, and Plenteousness in the provisions of life :
Happy births, and numerous offspring,
Offspring, lovely in form and nature,
Nursed in strength, and trained in godliness :
That our sons may be as plants, grown up in their youth ; that our daughters may be polished after the similitude of a palace ;
That our garners may be full, affording all manner of store ; that our sheep may bring forth

- thousands, and our oxen may be strong to labour;

That there be no breaking in, nor^d going out, nor complaining in our streets.—Ps. cxliv. 12, 13, 14.

One thing have I desired of the Lord, that will I seek after; that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to visit his holy temple.—Psalms xxvii. 4.

Two things have I required of thee, O Lord; deny me them not before I die:

Remove far from me vanity and lies; give me neither poverty nor riches; feed me but with food convenient for me:

Lest perhaps I be filled, and puffed up, and say, Who is the Lord? or lest I be driven by poverty to steal, and take the name of my God in vain.—Prov. xxx. 7, 8, 9.

Let me learn to abound, and let me learn to be abased, and, in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content.—Phil. iv. 11, 12.

But beyond what I possess, let me neither desire nor at any time expect any thing earthly, transitory, or corruptible.

Grant me a comfortable life, in godliness, sobriety, and chastity, in all goodness, in cheerfulness of mind, in health of body, in fair reputation, with contentment, with safety and freedom, in an age of peace.

Grant me a happy death, and a life of immortality.

EVENING PRAYERS AND MEDITATIONS.

HAVING passed over this day, I give thanks unto thee, O Lord.

The evening draweth nigh ; make thou it comfortable.

As the day hath its evening, so also hath the life of man : the evening of life is old age.

Old age hath taken hold of me ; make this also comfortable.

Cast me not off in the time of old age ; forsake me not when my strength faileth.—Psalm lxxi. 9.

Even to mine old age be thou he, and even to hoar hairs carry me ; do thou make, and do thou bear ; thou shalt carry and deliver me, O Lord.—Isaiah xlvi. 4.

Abide with me, for it is toward evening, and the day of this toilsome life is now far spent.—Jer. vi. 4.

Let thy strength be made perfect in my weakness.—2 Cor. xii. 9.

THE day is vanished and gone ; my life also is vanished, a life wherein we scarcely live.

The night cometh on, death also cometh on ; a death wherein we shall not die.

As is the end of the day, even so is the end of life, even near at hand.

We, therefore, remembering this, beseech thee, O Lord, to grant that our ends may be truly Christian, acceptable to thee, void of sin and shame, and, so far as thou shalt think proper, void of pain.

Guide us in peace, O Lord our Lord, gathering us together under the feet of thine elect, when thou wilt, and as thou wilt, only without shame and sin.

LET me remember the days of darkness, for they are many :—Eccles. xi. 8.

That I be not cast into outer darkness.—Matt. xxii. 13.

Let me remember and prevent the night, by working some good work.—John ix. 4.

The judgment is at hand : grant, O Lord, that we may give a good and acceptable account at the dread and terrible tribunal of JESUS CHRIST.

I LIFT up my hands by night in the sanctuary, and bless the Lord.—Psalms cxxxiv. 2, 3.

The Lord hath commanded his loving-kindness in the day-time, and in the night his song shall be with me, and my prayer unto the God of my life.—Psalms xlii. 8.

Thus will I bless thee while I live, and I will lift up my hands in thy name.—Psalms lxiii. 4.

Let my prayer be set forth before thee as incense ; the lifting up of my hands as the evening sacrifice.—Psalms cxli. 2.

BLESSED art thou, O Lord our God, the God of our fathers ;

Who didst create the successions of day and night ;—Gen. i. 14.

Who givest songs in the night ;—Job xxxv. 10.

Who hast delivered us from the evil of this day ;
—Matt. vi. 13.

Who hast not cut off, like a weaver, my life, neither from morning even to night hast thou made an end of me.—Isaiah xxxviii. 12.

A CONFESSION OF SIN.

LORD, as we add days unto days, so we add sins unto sins.—Ecclus. v. 5.

A just man falleth seven times a day ;—Prov. xxiv. 16.

But I, a wretched sinner, fall seventy times seven :
—Matt. xviii. 22.

A wonderful and horrible thing, O Lord !—Jer. v. 30.

But I return with groaning from my wicked ways, (Ezek. xx. 44.) and return unto my heart, (Jer. xxiv. 7.) and return unto thee with my whole heart, (Deut. xxx. 2.) O God of the penitent, and Saviour of sinners !—1 Tim. i. 15.

And evening after evening I will return: from the inmost recesses of my heart, and out of the depths, my soul crieth unto thee.—Psalms cxxx. 1.

Lord, I have sinned against thee, grievously I have sinned against thee; have mercy, alas! alas! have mercy on my wretchedness.

I repent; woe is me! I repent; spare me, O Lord! I repent; woe is me! I repent: help thou my lack of repentance.—Mark ix. 24.

Have pity, O Lord, and spare me: have pity, and be merciful unto me.

I said; Lord be merciful unto me; heal my soul, for I have sinned against thee.—Ps. xli. 4.

Have mercy upon me, O God, after thy great goodness, and according to the multitude of thy mercies do away mine offences.—Psalms li. 1.

Forgive my guilt,
Heal my sores,
Blot out my spots,
Rescue me from shame,
Deliver me from servitude,

And make me not an example to my fellows.

BRING me out of my distresses, O Lord;—Ps. xxv. 17.

Cleanse thou me from secret faults;—Psalms xix. 12.

And keep back thy servant from presumptuous sins.—Verse 13.

Impute not unto me the wanderings of concupiscence, (Wisd. iv. 12.) nor every idle word.—Matt. xii. 36.

Turn aside the black and filthy tide of unclean and unlawful thoughts.

O LORD, my destruction is of myself.—Hosea xiii. 9.

Graciously pardon whatever I have done amiss.—Neh. ix. 17.

Deal not with us after our sins, neither reward us according to our iniquities.—Psalms ciii. 10.

Graciously look upon our infirmities, and, for the glory of thy most holy name, turn from us all those evils, which are most righteously due to our sins, and for them to us.—Liturgy.

AT THE APPROACH OF NIGHT.

GIVE rest also, O Lord, to me that droop; renew my strength, for I am weary.

Lighten mine eyes, lest I sleep the sleep of death.—Psalms xiii. 3.

Deliver me from the terror by night, from the pestilence that walketh in darkness.—Psalms xci. 5, 6.

Grant me wholesome sleep, and to pass this night without fear.

O thou Keeper of Israel, who neither slumberest nor sleepest;—Psalms cxxi. 4.

Preserve me this night from all evil, preserve my soul, O Lord.—Verse 7.

Visit me with the salvation of thy saints; (Psalms cvi. 4.) and open my understanding in the visions of the night.—Job xxxiii. 15, 16.

But if not so, (for I am unworthy, I am unworthy,) at least, good Lord, let my sleep be a cessation, as from labour, so also from sin; even so, O Lord.

Neither in my dreams let me imagine aught that may offend thee or defile myself.

Let not my loins be filled with illusions ;—
Psalm xxxviii. 7.

But let my reins instruct me in the night-season ;
—Psalm xvi. 7.

Yet without grievous fear.

Preserve me from the dismal sleep of sin, and quiet every earthly and wicked thought within me.

Give me sweet repose, free from every carnal and devilish imagination.

Thou well knowest, O Lord, how watchful are my unseen enemies ; thou knowest the infirmity of my sinful flesh, for thou hast made me.—Psalm ciii. 14.

Let the wings of thy mercy protect me.—Psalm xvii. 8. and xci. 4.

Raise me up again in a time when thou mayest be found, at the hour of prayer ;—Psalm xxxii. 6.

And let me awake right early (Psalm cviii. 2.) to praise and worship thee.

BLESS, O Lord,
Thy creatures, mankind ;
Those in poverty and those in wealth,
Those in error and those in truth,
Those in sin and those in grace.
Bless the Universal Church ;
The Eastern, the Western, our own ;
Prelates, clergy, and laity.

Bless all the governments of the earth,
Particularly those of Christianity,
Our neighbours' and our own.
Bless the king,
And all the royal family.
Bless the nobles,
The council, the magistrates, and officers.

By kindred, or Kindness shewn to me in the ministration of worldly matters.
By any charge, in times past or times present, committed to me.
By moral friendship; Christian charity;
Vicinity of habitation.
By my own promise, or their request;
By their own want of leisure;
By my pity for their distresses;
By their occupation in some arduous pursuit
for the benefit of mankind;
By some offence I have given to them;
By the want of any other to intercede for them.

AT BED-TIME.

INTO thy hands, O Lord, I commit myself;
My spirit, my soul, my body:—1 Thess. v. 23.

Thou hast created, and thou hast redeemed them, O Lord God of truth.—Psalm xxxi. 5.

And, with me, I commend all my friends, and all my possessions; thou, O Lord, hast graciously given them unto thy servant.—Gen. xxxiii. 5.

Preserve my down-sitting and mine up-rising (Psalm cxxxix. 2.) from this time forth, and even for evermore:—Psalm cxxi. 8.

That I may remember thee upon my bed, (Psalm lxiii. 6.) and diligently search out my spirit, (Psalm lxxvii. 6.) and, when I awake, be still with thee.—Psalm cxxxix. 18.

I will both lay me down in peace, and sleep: for thou, Lord, only makest me dwell in safety.—Psalm iv. 8.

PRAYERS
FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION.

1. Before receiving the Sacrament.

LORD, I am not worthy nor deserving that thou shouldst come under the sordid roof of the habitation of my soul:—Matt. viii. 8.

For it is all desolate and ruinous ; neither in me hast thou a fit place, wherein to lay thy head.—Luke ix. 58.

But as thou didst vouchsafe to be laid in the stall and manger of brute beasts ;—Luke ii. 7.

As thou didst not disdain to be received into the house of Simon the leper ;—Matt. xxvi. 6.

As thou didst not reject the adulteress, a sinner like unto me, when she approached and touched thee, nor abhor her impure and profane lips ;—Luke vii. 37, 38.

Neither the thief on the cross, when he confessed thee ;—Luke xxiii. 43.

Even so vouchsafe to admit me also, a bruised, a wretched, and exceeding sinful creature, to a communion and participation in the spotless, holy, quickening, and saving sacrament of thy most blessed body and precious blood.—Liturgy of St. Chrysostom.

Look down, O Lord our God, from thy holy habitation, and from the throne of glory in thy kingdom, and come and bless us.—Deut. xxvi. 15.

O thou who sittest on high with the Father, and here, unseen, art present with us, come down, and sanctify these gifts presented to thee, and those for whom, and those by whom, and the purposes whereunto they are offered.—Liturgies of St. Chrysost. and St. Basil.

For a type of our perfection :—John xvii. 23.

That we, with all thy saints, who from the beginning have pleased thee, may be made partakers of thy incorruptible and eternal benefits, which thou hast prepared, O Lord, for them that love thee, (1 Cor. ii. 9.) in whom thou art glorified for ever.—2 Thess. i. 10.

O Lamb of God, that takest away the sins of the world,—John i. 29.

Take away mine also, for I am a grievous sinner.—1 Tim. i. 15.

WE, therefore, O Lord, in the presence of thy sacrament, being mindful

Of the saving passions of thy Christ,

Of his life-bestowing cross,

Of his most precious death,

Of his three days' burial,

Of his resurrection from the dead,

Of his ascension into heaven,

Of his seat at the right hand of thee, his Father,

Of his second advent in glory and in terror,

Beseech thee, O Lord, that we, taking part in thy sacraments with the pure testimony of our conscience, (2 Cor. i. 12.) may be incorporated in the blessed body and blood of thy Christ :

And that, worthily receiving them, we may have Christ dwelling in our hearts, (Eph. iii. 17.) and become a temple of thy Holy Ghost:—1 Cor. vi. 19.

Even so, O Lord our God !

And make not any one of us guilty of these awful and heavenly sacraments, neither sickly in soul or body by an unworthy partaking of them.—1 Cor. xi. 27 ; 30.

But grant us, even to our last and latest breath, worthily to conceive the hope of these thy mysteries

To our { sanctification, illumination,
and confirmation ;

To the relief of the burden of our many sins ;
To the discomfiture of every assault of the devil ;
To the dismissal and removal of our evil habits ;

For the mortification of our passions,
The observance of thy commandments,
The increase of thy heavenly grace,
And the attainment of thy kingdom.

2. After receiving the Sacrament.

WE have now finished and consummated, O Christ our God, according to our ability, the mystery of thy dispensation.

For we have received the memorial of thy death ;
We have seen the type of thy resurrection ;
We have been filled with thy eternal life ;

We have had delight in thy endearments,
Whereof there is no satiety ;
And the enjoyment of which, O Lord God, we pray thee to award to all of us, in the world to come.

THE good Lord pardon every one, that loveth him with his whole heart, and seeketh the Lord God of his fathers, though he be not cleansed according to the purification of the saints.—2 Chron.
xxx. 18, 19.

MEDITATION THE FIRST.

On the Day of Judgment.

O FATHER, without beginning,
 O only-begotten Son,
 O quickening Spirit,
 Merciful, compassionate, long-suffering,
 Of great pity, of great loving-kindness,
 Who lovest the righteous, and hast compassion
 on the wicked,
 Pardoning our offences, and granting our petitions;
 O God of the repentant,
 O Saviour of sinners,
 I have sinned against thee, O Lord,
 And thus and thus have I done.—Josh. vii. 20.

Alas! Alas!

How have I been enticed of mine own lust!—
James i. 14.

How have I hated instruction!—Prov. v. 12.

I have neither revered nor dreaded
 Thy incomprehensible splendour,
 Thy awful presence,
 Thy terrible power,
 Thy unerring justice,
 Thy endearing kindness.

I will call therefore, if there be any that will answer me: to which of the holy angels shalt I turn?—Job v. 1.

O wretched man that I am ! who shall deliver me from the body of this death ?—Rom. vii. 24.

How terrible is thy judgment, O Lord !

When the thrones are prepared,

When the angels stand by,

When mankind are introduced,

When the books are opened,

When deeds are scrutinized,

When thoughts are revealed,

When hidden things of darkness are brought to light.—1 Cor. iv. 5.

What will be my sentence ?

Who will extinguish my flame,

Who will lighten my darkness,

Unless thou have pity on me ?

Grant me tears, O Lord, as thou lovest man, grant me many tears, and grant them now !

For at that day there will be

An inflexible judge,

A dreadful tribunal,

Pleadings without excuse,

Accusations without denial,

A bitter recompense,

Torments interminable,

Fiends inflexible,

The yawning gulf of hell,

The roaring stream of fire,

Of fire, never to be extinguished ;

A dungeon of darkness,

Of darkness, where no light can penetrate ;

Of all the miseries of this world.

Behold me, Lord, condemned by my own judgment;—Tit. iii. 11.

Behold, O Lord, and enter not into judgment with thy servant.—Psalms cxliii. 2.

And now, Lord, I am humbled under thy mighty hand;—1 Pet. v. 6.

Unto thee, O Lord, I bow my knees;—Eph. iii. 14.

I fall on my face to the earth.—Josh. v. 14.

Let this cup pass from me.—Matt. xxvi. 39.

I stretch forth my hands unto thee;—Psalms clxiii. 6.

I smite upon my breast;—Luke xviii. 13.

I smite upon my thigh.—Jer. xxxi. 19.

Out of the depths my soul crieth unto thee;—Psalms cxxx. 1.

It thirsteth after thee as a thirsty land,—Psalms cxliii. 6.

And so do all my bones,—Psalms xxxv. 10.

And all that is within me.—Psalms ciii. 1.

O Lord, hear my voice!—Psalms lxi. 1.

MEDITATION THE SECOND.

On the Frailty of Human Life.

HAVE mercy upon me, O Lord, for I am weak;—Psalms vi. 2.

Remember how short my time is;—Psalms lxxxix. 47.

DAILY
PRAYERS AND MEDITATIONS.

PART THE SECOND.

"Dost thou pray? thou communest with thy spouse.
Dost thou read? thy spouse communeth with thee."—St. Jerome.

"Reading enricheth prayer; by prayer reading is enlightened."—William of Paris.

DAILY PRAYERS AND MEDITATIONS.

SECOND PART.

A GENERAL CONFESSION.

TWO things, O Lord, I recognise in myself: Nature, which thou madest; Sin, which I have added.

I confess that by sin I have deformed nature: but remember that I am but a wind that passeth away and cometh not again (Ps. lxxviii. 39.): for of myself I am not able to return from sin.

Up, Lord; take away from me that which I have made; let that which thou hast made abide in me: neither let that perish, which thou hast redeemed with thy precious blood.

Up, Lord; let not my unworthiness destroy that which thy kindness hath redeemed.

O Lord, my God, though I have made myself a malefactor in thy sight, could I make myself to cease to be thy servant?

Though I have cast away mine own innocence, could I also trample down thy mercy?

Though I have committed deeds worthy of condemnation, hast thou also lost the means of my salvation ?

Verily, O Lord, my conscience deserveth judgment, but thy mercy outstrippeth all defence.

Spare me, therefore :

For it is not difficult to thy power,

It is not unbecoming to thy justice,

It is not unusual to thy mercy,

To spare a sinner.

Thou who hast created me,

Do not destroy me ;

Thou who hast redeemed me,

Do not condemn me.

Thou who hast created me in thy goodness, suffer not thy handy-work to perish by my iniquity.

Acknowledge whatsoever in me is thine, and take away whatsoever in me is mine own.

Let thy unbounded loving-kindness look down upon my misery : let thy universal pity look upon my guilt.

Weak, I betake me to the Omnipotent ; wounded, I fly to the Physician.

Keep for me in store the bounty of thy compassion, since thou hast so long withheld the sword of thy wrath.

Blot out the multitude of my offences ; renew the abundance of thy mercies.

Though I be defiled and blinded,

Diseased and even dead,

Yet thou canst cleanse me,

Thou canst enlighten me, . .
Thou canst heal me, . .
Nay, thou canst bring me back to life.
Such as I am, whether I be good, or whether I be evil, I am ever thine.
If thou deny me, if thou despise me,
Who will receive me? who will regard me?
Thou canst forgive, thou canst spare,
Even more than I can sin or offend.

LET not any baneful inclinations work me harm,
Let not any evil habit work my destruction.
But keep me from corrupt and lawless passions,
Keep me from vain, injurious, and impure imaginations,
Keep me from the delusions of malignant spirits,
From pollutions both of mind and body.

MORNING PRAYERS.

O THOU that hearest prayer, unto thee shall all flesh come.—Psalm lxxv. 2.

Evening, and morning, and at noon, will I pray and cry aloud; and thou shalt hear my voice.—Psalm lv. 17.

In the morning will I direct my prayer unto thee; my voice shalt thou hear in the morning.—Psalm v. 3.

Let my prayer be set forth in thy sight as incense.—Psalm cxli. 2.

I will remember thee in my bed, O Lord, because thou hast been my helper.—Psalm lxiii. 7, 8.

I YIELD thee thanks, Almighty Lord and everlasting God, because thou hast vouchsafed to preserve me this night, not according to my deserts, but according to thy sacred mercy.

Grant me, O Lord, so to pass this day in thy sacred service, that the homage of my duty may please thee.

I LIFT up my heart and my hands unto the Lord in heaven.

Behold, as the eyes of servants look unto the hands of their masters, and as the eyes of a maiden unto the hands of her mistress, so our eyes wait upon the Lord our God, until that he have mercy upon us.—Psalm cxxiii. 2.

Look thou upon me, and be merciful unto me, as thou usest to do unto those that love thy name.—Psalm cxix. 132.

Give thy angels charge over me, to keep me in all my ways.—Psalm xci. 11.

Shew me thy ways, and teach me thy paths.—Psalm xxv. 4.

Order my steps in thy word, and let not any iniquity have dominion over me.—Psalm cxix. 133.

Hold up my goings in thy paths, that my footsteps slip not.—Psalm xvii. 5.

Put into my mouth a right and becoming speech, that all my words, and looks, and gestures, and deeds, may be acceptable in thy sight (Psalm xix. 14.), and in the sight and hearing of all men.

O God of kindness and love,—Titus iii. 4.

Very pitiful and of tender mercy,—James v. 11.

Father of mercies,—2 Cor. i. 3.

Rich in mercy towards all those who call upon thee;—Eph. ii. 4.

I have sinned against Heaven, and before thee, and am no more worthy to be called thy son; I am not even worthy to be made one of thy hired servants, no, not the meanest of them all.—Luke xv. 18, 19

But I repent, alas! I repent; help thou my impenitence:—Mark ix. 24.

And, if there be any consolation in thy love, (Philem. 7.) I entreat thee by the bowels of thy mercies, (Phil. ii. 1.) by the abundance, (Rom. v. 17.) by the riches of thy grace, (Eph. i. 7.) by the exceeding abundance of thy mercies, (1 Tim. i. 14.) by the great love wherewith thou hast loved us, (Eph. ii. 4.) be merciful to me a sinner, (Luke xviii. 13.) be merciful to me the chief, the most miserable, of sinners.—1 Tim. i. 15.

Deep calleth unto deep ;—Psalms xlii. 2.

The depth of our wretchedness upon the depth of thy mercy.

Where sin hath abounded, may grace much more abound ;—Rom. v. 20.

Overcome our evil with thy good ;—Rom. xii. 21.

Let thy mercy rejoice against thy judgment on our offences.—James ii. 13.

Nay, so be it, O Lord.

BUT above all things, and before all, I believe that thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.—Matt. xvi. 16.

O thou that camest into the world to save sinners, of whom I am chief (1 Tim. i. 15.) ; save me.

Thou that takest away the sins of the world (John i. 29.) ; take away my sins.

Thou that camest to seek and to save that which was lost (Luke xix. 10.); suffer not that which , thou hast saved to suffer evil.

Free me from the remembrance of evil things, that I record not before the world those things which I have either seen or heard from wicked men, nor ever mention them to others : and that I hold in abhorrence every wicked way.

I have deserved death ; yet I still appeal from the tribunal of thy justice unto the throne of thy grace.

A GENERAL SUPPLICATION.

LET us pray :

For the catholic church.

For all the churches throughout the world ;

For their truth, unity, and stability ;

That love may abound and truth flourish, in them all.

For our own church ;

That whatsoever is deficient therein may be supplied,

And whatsoever is wrong may be corrected ;

That all heresies, schisms, and offences, both public and private, may be removed.

O God, reclaim the wandering,

Convert the unbelieving,

Increase the faith of thy church,

Root out heresies,

Expose our secret, and overthrow our open, enemies.

For the clergy ;

That they may rightly divide the word of truth ;

—2 Tim. ii. 15.

That they may walk circumspectly ;—Eph. v. 15.

That, teaching others, (2 Tim. ii. 2.) they may themselves learn both the way and the truth.

—John xiv. 6.

For the people ;

That they make not themselves over-wise ;—

Eccles. vii. 16.

But be persuaded by reason, and yield to the authority of their superiors.

For the kingdoms of the world ;

Their stability and peace.

For our own kingdom, municipality, and city ;

That they abide in prosperity and happiness,
and be delivered from all peril and disaster.

For the king ;

O Lord, save him ; O Lord, give him prosperity.

Compass him with the shield of truth and glory ;

Speak good things unto his heart, in behalf of thy church and people.

FOR the wisdom of our senators,
The equity and integrity of our judges,
The bravery of our troops,

people.

Whether in colleges or schools;
That they may increase, as in stature, so in wisdom, and in favour with God and man.—

of the needy and the captive.
To restore, in thy kind compassion, the lapses of this fragile flesh, and to strengthen those that fall.

To accept with favour our bounden duty and service.—Liturgy.

To raise our minds to heavenly desires.

To cast on us an eye of pity.

To rescue our souls, and the souls of our neighbours, from eternal condemnation.

Finally, to give me grace, that with these, for whom I have prayed, and with those for whom I am by any duty bound to pray, I may be admitted into thy kingdom, there to appear in righteousness, and to be filled with glory.—Col. iii. 4.

Hear us, O Lord, we beseech thee.

For the dryness of mine eyes.—Jer. ix. 1.

BEHOLD, LORD,

Fearfulness and trembling are come upon me, and the fear of death hath overwhelmed me.—Psalms lv. 5.

What fear, what terror, what dismay, what agony must I behold at the day of final judgment!

What confusion will then confound me! by what darkness shall I be then encompassed!

BEHOLD, LORD, .

I pronounce myself a culprit, and worthy and deserving of eternal wrath, besides the many troubles of this life.

I have deserved death from thee, O Lord, for thou art just;

Yet I appeal to thee, O Lord, for thou art merciful;

I appeal from the throne of thy judgment to the footstool of thy grace.

Admit this appeal, O Lord; if thou admit it not, we perish.

And carest thou not, O Lord, that we perish?—

Mark iv. 38.

Thou who willest have all men to be saved;—
1 Tim. ii. 4.

Thou who art not willing that any should perish.
—2 Peter iii. 9.

As for me, I am not worthy of the least of all thy mercies.—Gen. xxxii. 10.

I am not worthy to be made as one of thy hired servants; no, not the lowest of them.—Luke xv. 19.

I am not worthy to eat of the crumbs, which fall from thy table.—Matt. xv. 27.

I am not worthy to touch the hem of thy garment.—Matt. ix. 20.

But, O, by thy great mercy, by the multitude of thy mercies :—Lament. iii. 32.

For thy name's sake, for the glory of thy name ;
—Psalms lxxix. 9.

Be merciful to my sin, for it is great ; yea, it is very great.—Psalms xxv. 10.

GRANT me the grace of thy Holy Spirit, O God, to thank with perpetual remembrance thy Word and only Son ;

In his conception and nativity, as the cleanser of our nature ;—Eph. ii. 3.

In his descent and resurrection after death, as our avenger over hell ;—1 Cor. xv. 55.

In his ascension, as our fore-runner ;—Heb. vi. 20.

In his seat at thy right hand, as our advocate ;
—1 John ii. 1.

In his second coming, as the renewer of our faith.—Heb. xii. 2.

Who opposeth himself

To ABADDON, the destroyer (Rev. ix. 11.),
as JESUS the Saviour ;

To Satan the adversary, as our Mediator ;

To our calumniator	} the Devil, as our
To our accuser

To our task-master, as our Redeemer.

THAT Christ himself may be formed in us (Gal. iv. 19.) let us be conformed to his image.—Rom. viii. 29.

When I wax cold in prayer, and destitute of any grace or heavenly consolation, let me call to mind, O Lord, thy seat above, thy sojourn upon earth, and thy intercession with the Father.

When I grow warm with evil passion or concupiscence, let me not forget thy terrible and solemn tribunal, and let the voice of the last trumpet sound without ceasing in mine ears.

THAT, for thy Christ's sake, I may receive of thee, Anointing Father, thy unction (1 John ii. 20.), thy saving grace (Psalms lxvii. 2.), the unspeakable gift of thy Holy Ghost,—2 Cor. ix. 15.

In salutary compunction,

In pure knowledge,

In fervent prayer,

In diffusion of charity,

In attestation of the seal

And of the pledge ;

Let me never quench the Spirit ;—1 Thess. v. 19.

Nor strive against him ;—Jer. i. 24.

Nor grieve him ;—Eph. iv. 30.

Nor offend him.—Acts vii. 51.

THAT in thy church we may be called,

That in thy catholic church we may be living members in will and wish ;

That in thy holy church we may be partakers in the fellowship of devout men and things, of pious prayers and liturgies, to the belief of remission of our sins, (Acts x. 43.) and to the hope of resurrection from the dead unto life eternal;—Titus iii. 7.

O Lord, increase our faith,—Luke xvii. 5.

As a grain of mustard seed;—Ver. 6.

Matt. xii. 20.

Strengthen those that stand in truth and grace, and raise up them that fall in heresies or sins.—
Liturgy.

I beseech thee, O Lord, by thy great mercy, to remove thine anger from this city and this house; for we have sinned against thee:

To comfort this place, and the whole land, by assuaging justice with mercy.

GRANT that I may love in return those who love me, though unknown to me :

Grant that I may point out to them the mercy of God in my prayers : and bring them, together with me, into thy heavenly kingdom.

AN ACT OF PRAISE.

BLESSED are the people that know the joyful sound ; they shall walk, O Lord, in the light of thy countenance.—Psalm lxxxix. 15.

In thy name, O Lord, shall they rejoice all the day ; and in thy righteousness shall they be exalted.—Verse 16.

My mouth shall speak the praise of the Lord ; and let all flesh bless his holy name for ever and ever.—Ps. cxlv. 21.

Be thou exalted, O God, above the heavens, and thy glory above all the earth.—Psalm cviii. 5.

I will praise thee, O Lord, with my whole heart, in the assembly of the upright, and in the congregation.—Ps. cxi. 1.

Open my mouth, (Psalm lxxviii. 2.) that I may praise thy name ; let me find time to praise thee ; and in the sight of angels will I sing unto thee.—Psalm lvii. 9.

Accept the praises which I desire to sing unto thee, unworthy sinner as I am, in truth unworthy, yet praises of devotion and gratitude to thee.

Thou art worthy to receive, O Lord God.—Rev. iv. 11.

Thou art my God, and I will praise thee ; thou art my God, I will exalt thee.—Psalms cxviii. 28.

I will sing unto the Lord as long as I live ; I will sing praise to my God while I have my being.—Psalms civ. 33.

Glory to God in the highest, on earth peace, good will towards men.—Luke ii. 14.

Glory, and honour, and praise, and blessing, and thanksgiving, and wisdom, and virtue, and riches, and power, and might, and holiness, and salvation be unto our God, that liveth for ever, that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb slain. Hallelujah. Amen.—Rev. v. 12, 13. and xix. 1.

Hosanna in the highest ! Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.—Matt. xxi. 9.

It would rather become me, O Lord, a sinner, an impenitent sinner, and so utterly undeserving, to lie prostrate in thy presence, and with weeping and groaning to ask pardon for my sins, than with my polluted lips to praise thee.

Nevertheless, I put my trust in thy inherent goodness, and say :

Blessed art thou, O God, who hast created and brought me into this life, and so disposed of me that I should be

A living soul, and not a senseless creature ;

A man, and not a brute beast ;
Civilized, not barbarous ;
Free-born, not a slave ;
Legitimate, not spurious ;
Of honest parentage, not of base or ignominious ;
Endowed with reason, not foolish ;
Perfect in senses, neither blind nor deaf ;
Perfect in limbs, neither halt nor maimed ;
Brought up, not exposed ;
Trained to learning, not to mechanical arts ;
A Christian, not a Pagan ;
Preserved from dangers and disgrace ;
In days of peace, not in storms of war ;
Of sufficient estate, compelled neither to flatter nor to borrow ;
Delivered from innumerable transgressions,
And endowed with the gifts of grace, of nature,
and of fortune.

O THOU, who, according to thy abundant mercy, hast begotten us again unto a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, to an inheritance incorruptible and undefiled, and that fadeth not away, reserved in heaven for us ;—1
Pet. i. 3, 4.

Thou, who hast blessed me with all spiritual blessings in heavenly places in Christ ;—Eph. i. 3.

Thou, who hast comforted me in all my tribulation, since, as the sufferings of Christ have abounded in me, so my consolation also aboundeth by Christ;—2 Cor. i. 4, 5.

Thee, O God of my fathers, I thank and praise, for thou hast given me in some measure wisdom and might, and hast made known unto me what I desired of thee, and declared the matter unto me.—Dan. ii. 23.

Protestation of Gratitude.

O LORD, I am not worthy of the least of all thy mercies, and of all the truth which thou hast shewed unto thy servant.—Gen. xxxii. 10.

And what can I say more unto thee? for thou, O Lord my God, knowest thy servant.—2 Sam. vii. 20.

What am I, O Lord, what is thy servant, and what is thy servant's house, that thou shouldest look upon such a dead dog as I am?—2 Sam. ix. 8.

Wherefore hast thou loved me thus long?—John xiii. 1.

What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits toward me?—Psalms cxvi. 12.

What thanks can we render to God again, for all the joy wherewith we joy before him?—1 Thess. iii. 9.

THOU who hast ordained, O Lord, that on this holy day, and at this hour, I should lift up my soul and praise thee, and offer thee the glory due unto thee;

Accept, O Lord, thyself this spiritual sacrifice of my soul; and receiving it unto thyself at thy spiritual altar, vouchsafe in turn to send me the grace of thy most holy Spirit.

Visit me in thy goodness; pardon all my sin, voluntary as well as involuntary; deliver me from eternal punishment, and from all the sorrows of this world.

Turn my meditations unto godliness; sanctify my spirit, my mind, and my body; and grant that I may adore thee and please thee in piety and holiness of life to the last hour of my existence.

Now unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us;

Unto him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end.—Eph. iii. 20, 21.

My soul shall be satisfied as with marrow and fatness; and my mouth shall praise thee with joyful lips.—Psalms lxiii. 5.

7. Let not calamities come upon us, neither let the scourge approach our tents.

2. By thee kings do reign ; their hearts are in thy hand, as the rivers of waters, to turn them whithersoever thou wilt. (Prov. xxi. 1.) Turn them unto good, O Lord.
3. Let there not be many thoughts in our hearts ;

but let thy counsel, O Lord, abide, and be perfected.

4. Two things have I required of thee ; deny me
(not them before I die : give me neither poverty (nor riches, but allow me what is necessary and sufficient.—Prov. xxx. 7, 8.
5. Who can say with confidence, I am clean from sin ? (Prov. xx. 9.) Be merciful to thy servants who have sinned against thee, and heal their souls.
6. Keep my path from all occasion of Sin ; let me not approach the gates of her house.

before our eyes.—Ezek. xiv. 4.

7. Set not thy face against us for evil.—Ezek.

xv. 7.

VII.

1. HOLY is thy name above every name :—Phil.

ii. 9.

In sanctity and reverence to be esteemed by all ;
by some more than by others ; by me more than by most others.

Yet I have not so esteemed it, neither have I essayed to do it, so far as in me lay.

Woe is me, wretched that I am, that I have not done it ; I freely confess my sin.

I am grieved in heart, in mind, in soul, in spirit.

Suppliant I pray for pardon, and for grace, that from this time forward I may so speak, do, and live, as to hallow thy name, O Lord.

And would that others, after my example, might do the same !

2. May thy kingdom, the great object of my wishes, visit me here in a state of grace, that I may visit it hereafter in a state of glory.

Here also, by thy favour, may I be of some service in the kingdom of men ; that in the kingdom of heaven hereafter I may be admitted to a place, though it be the lowest under the feet of thy saints.

3. May the will of the flesh, and the will of man, depart from me.

May thy holy, just, and gracious will towards earth be done on earth, by me and all the inhabitants of earth, even as it is in heaven.

4. Give me all things that be needful for my health, peace, and happiness ;

Give me the bread of angels unto life eternal.

5. Forgive me all my debts, the vast sum of my debts ;

My shameful downfalls, my continual backslidings, my daily wallowings.

With thee is propitiation, with the Lord there is mercy ; with God is plenteous redemption, and he shall redeem me from all my iniquities.—Psalm cxxx. 7, 8.

And other faults I have committed ; though I know them not, yet not less heavy, and perchance heavier ; wherein I pray to be enlightened, that I may be able to acknowledge them.

6. And lead me not, suffer me not to be led, suffer me not to enter, into temptation ;

Remembering and pitying my weakness, my frailty so frequently betrayed.

7. But deliver me from evil :

From evil in myself and my flesh, and in its deceitfulness ;

From evil suggestions of the Devil ;

From evil sentences, for most justly and fairly have I deserved them ;

From evils of the time to come ; spare me there,
O Lord, though here thou chastise me with fire and sword ;

From evils of the present time ; nay, spare me,
Lord, here also ;

From the incumbrances of the world, and its calamities ;

From the oppression of disease, wherewith I am afflicted, and of business, wherein I am entangled ;

From evils, past, present, and to come ;

From all these things deliver me, O Lord, and keep me as thy servant for ever, even though lower than the lowest.

I BESEECH thee, Lord, by all thy mercy, let thy most just indignation be turned away from me ;

For often and grievously, very grievously and very often have I sinned against thee, especially in my late, my last offences :

Yet be it turned away from me and from my parents, from my brothers and sisters, my family and kindred, my friends and neighbours, my country, and all Christian people. Amen.

PRAYERS FOR THE HOUSE OF GOD.

of the Lord, and to visit his temple.—Psalm xxvii. 4.

My heart said unto thee, I will seek the Lord ;
I have sought thee and thy face ; thy face, O Lord, will I seek.—Verse 8.

cxviii. 19.

2. After Confession.

O MY Saviour, Christ, my Saviour ! Who will grant that I may rather die than offend thee any more ? O my Saviour, Christ, my Saviour !

O Lord, let my new course of life declare that a new Spirit is come over me :

For life is new, where penitence is sincere ; and confession is true, where penitence is incessant :

By observing a perpetual day of rest from sin,
From its occasion, its contagion, and its danger.

For as repentance destroyeth old offences, so new offences destroy repentance.

OPEN thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law.—Psalm cxix. 18.

Remove the veil from my heart, O Lord, whilst

Be thou, O Lord, in my spirit and in my mouth ; in my mouth, that I may rightly and duly announce thy oracles, under the sanctifying influence of thy most holy Spirit.

O thou, who didst send the seraphim with a live coal in the tongs to touch the lips of thy prophet, and take away his sins (Isai. vi. 6, 7.) ; touch my lips also, for I am a sinner ; cleanse me from every spot, and make me worthy to proclaim thy oracles.

O Lord, open thou my lips, and my mouth shall shew forth thy praise.—Psalms li. 15.

O Lord my God, give me a tongue of understanding, that I may know what I ought to speak (Col. iv. 3, 4.) ; even that which is good to the use of edifying, that it may minister grace unto the hearers.—Eph. iv. 29.

May language be given me with the opening of my mouth.—Ezek. xxix. 21.

Open my mouth wide, O Lord, and fill it.—Ps.
lxxxi. 10.

THE world,	the sea ;
Mankind,	the fishes ;
The church,	the boat ;

Blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed.—Verse 29.

I said, I will confess my transgressions unto the Lord ; and thou forgavest my iniquity.—Psalms xxxiii. 5.

And if he shall come in the second watch, or come in the third watch, and find them so, blessed are those servants.—Luke xii. 38.

Who didst save Peter when he had begun to sink,—Matt. xiv. 30.

And Paul, when he suffered shipwreck :—Acts xxvii. 44.

Guide me on my way, bring me whither I would go, and bring me back again.

Let God arise, and let his enemies be scattered.
—Psalm lxxviii. 1.

Depart from me, ye evil doers ; for I will keep the commandments of my God.—Psalm cxix. 115.

ART thou not sorry, O my soul ? art thou not humbled and ashamed ? art thou not grieved, affrighted, and distressed ?

Perform then thy oblations unto God ;

If not seven times a day, like David,—Psalm cxix. 164.

At least three times a day like Daniel.—

Dan. vi. 10.

If not at length like Solomon,—1 Kings viii. 22—53.

At least with brevity, like the publican.—

At least to the extent of my power.—2 Cor. viii. 3.

BRADWARDINE.

(From his Treatise "De Virtute Causarum," published in 1618.)

THEE, O my God, and thee alone, and for thine own sake alone, I love before all things else. Thee I desire, for thee I long unto the end. Thee only, and for thine own sake, and for nothing but thyself, I still seek always and in all things; from the very bottom of my heart, from my inmost soul; with groaning and lamentation; with constant labour and anxiety.

What, then, wilt thou render unto me in the end? if thou render not thyself to me again, thou renderest me nothing; if thou give not thyself to me, thou givest me nothing; if I find not thee, I find not any thing; thou yieldest me no reward, but affliction more abundant.

For even before I sought thee, I hoped at length to find thee, and to hold thee fast; and with this delightful hope I sweetly comforted myself in all my troubles. But now, if thou deny thyself to me, whatever else thou givest me, yet, defeated of so great a hope, (and that not for a time, but to eternity,) shall I not for ever faint with love, and pine with faintness, and weep with pining, and despair with weeping, because I must remain for ever empty and unsatisfied? Shall I not inconsolably afflict myself? incessantly murmur? and immoderately be tormented?

Such is not thy will, most good, and kind, and loving God; it in no wise agreeth or comporteth with thy nature. Grant therefore, most gracious God, that I may love thee ever, and seek thee everywhere, above all things, and for thy sake, in this life present, and may at length find thee, and hold thee fast for ever, in the life to come. Grant this, for Jesus Christ his sake. Amen.

AN ACT OF ADORATION.

O GOD the FATHER, of heaven,
Who didst wonderfully create the world out of nothing ;
Who by thy power dost govern and uphold the heavens and the earth ;
Who didst deliver thine only-begotten Son to death for us :

O GOD the SON, Redeemer of the world,
Who didst vouchsafe to be incarnate of a virgin ;
Who by thy precious blood hast cleansed us from sin ;—1 John i. 7.
Who, having risen from the dead, didst ascend in triumph to heaven :

O GOD the HOLY GHOST, the Comforter,
Who didst descend upon Jesus under the form of a dove ;—Matt. iii. 16.
Who didst sit upon the apostles like tongues of fire ;—Acts ii. 3.
Who dost visit and confirm by thy grace the hearts of thy saints :

O HOLY, supreme, everlasting, glorious, and blessed Trinity, ever worthy to be praised, yet ever ineffable ;

O righteous Father,

O kind Son,
O gentle Spirit,
Of majesty inexpressible,
Of power incomparable,
Of goodness inestimable,
Whose work is life,
Whose love is grace,
Whose contemplation is glory;
Unity in Trinity,
But One Godhead;

I pray to thee, I call upon thee, I bless thee with the whole strength of my heart, now and for ever. Amen.

THOU that art the God of the living, as well as of the dead;—Matt. xxii. 32.

To whom both we belong, whom the present life yet detains in the flesh, and they also, who, having put off the body (Col. ii. 11.), have passed into the life to come;

Grant unto the living mercy and grace;
Grant unto the dead eternal rest and light;
Grant unto thy Church truth and peace,
And unto us sinners penitence and pardon.

BE thou exalted, Lord, in thine own strength ; so will we sing and praise thy power.—Ps. xxi. 13.

Let all thy works praise thee, O Lord, and let thy saints bless thee.—Psalm cxlv. 10.

HYMNS.

. The Morning, or Angelic, Hymn, as it is sometimes called, from the commencement having been sung by angels at our Saviour's birth, is ascribed, for the most part, to Telesphorus, about the year of Christ 139; the whole being incorporated into the Liturgy of St. James. By some it is supposed that this composition is alluded to in one of the Dialogues of Lucian, where mention is made of the "ὠδὴ πολυνύμμος," or "Hymn with many names;" and our venerable author thought it not unlikely that the same is designated in the Letters of Pliny, as the song which the Christians used to sing together on stated days at break of morn, in honour of Christ their God.

The Evening Hymn, which is also of remote antiquity, will be found recorded, as well as the preceding, in the "Tractatus de Symbolo Apostolico" of Archbishop Usher.

The Monostrophic on the Crucifixion was written by Thomas Masters, of New College, Oxford, who died in 1643. A Latin Translation was published shortly afterwards by Henry Jacob. In English, it appears among the poems of William Cowley, and again among those of Christopher Pitt.

HYMNS.

MORNING HYMN.

GLORY to God on high, and in earth peace, good will towards men.

We praise thee, we bless thee, we worship thee, we glorify thee, we give thanks to thee for thy great glory, O Lord God, heavenly king, God the Father Almighty.

O Lord, the only-begotten Son, Jesu Christ; O Lord God, Lamb of God, Son of the Father, that takest away the sins of the world, have mercy upon us. Thou that takest away the sins of the world, have mercy upon us. Thou that takest away the sins of the world, receive our prayer. Thou that sittest at the right hand of God the Father, have mercy upon us.

For thou only art holy; thou only art the Lord; thou only, O Christ, with the Holy Ghost, art most high in the glory of God the Father. Amen.

EVENING HYMN.

O CHEERFUL light of the sacred glory of the immortal, heavenly, holy, blessed Father, Jesu Christ.

Having reached the setting of the sun, and beholding the star of evening, we praise the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit of God.

Worthy art thou at every hour to be celebrated by holy lips, O Son of God, thou giver of life.

Therefore the world doth glorify thee.

A MONOSTROPHIC.

ENOUGH, enough ! thy babbling verse
No more, vain Muse, prolong ;
Henceforth with harp and lute rehearse
A nobler, holier song ;
To Heav'n let loud Hosannas ring
The triumph of our martyr'd King.

Amaz'd before th' abyss I pause
Of miracles profound,
And, wrapt in Heav'n's mysterious laws,
A wonder would expound ;
A wonder angels cannot scan,—
How God immortal died for man.

3.

Mercy of mercies ! Son by Sire
To foes a hostage giv'n !
Three days a buried corpse, aspire
In glory back to Heav'n !
Captivity in thralldom led,
And Death by Death discomfited !

These would I sing ; but groan and shriek
Of vengeance and of pain
On Calvary's mount a story speak,—
The slayer and the slain :
Above the hill look high in air,—
Hang there not three in torment there ?

5.

And one, the midst, (nor anger He Alone, nor terror shews,) Outstretch'd upon th' accursed tree,
His forehead meekly bows ;
His bleeding hands and ankles view,
With nails of iron broken through.

Vain, wretched man ! behold, and wake !
With shame repentance blend ;
Thy cheek and breast, for sorrow's sake,
Thy hair and garment rend ;
Beat thy hard heart, and learn the bliss
Of anguish deep and dear as this !

7.

Before thee runs the purple flood,—
No dye of Tyrian wave,—
But gushing deep from wounds of blood,
The crown of mockery gave ;
Or lash'd from every stripe and sore,
The cruel scourge hath furrow'd o'er.

Weep, child of man, insensate, weep,
The gates of grief set free ;
The ground in tears for Jesus steep,
He drench'd in blood for thee.
For boon like His grudge not in turn
The sacrifice of hearts that mourn.

GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS OF THE MORTALITY OF MAN.

WHAT man is he that liveth, and shall not see death ?—Psalm lxxxix. 48.

It is appointed unto men once to die.—Heb. ix. 27.

I am a stranger with thee, and a sojourner, as all my fathers were.—Psalm xxxix. 12.

Here have we no continuing city.—Heb. xiii. 14.

The night cometh, when no man can work.—John ix. 4.

If the tree fall toward the south, or toward the north, in the place where the tree falleth, there it shall be.—Eccles. xi. 3.

COMFORTABLE SCRIPTURES TO BE USED TO THE SICK.

THE mountains shall depart, and the hills be removed, but my kindness shall not depart from thee, neither shall the covenant of my peace be removed, saith the Lord that hath mercy on thee.—Isaiah liv. 10.

Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away.—Matt. xxiv. 35.

All the promises of God in him are Yea and Amen.—2 Cor. i. 20.

Whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises, that by these we might be partakers of the divine nature.—2 Pet. i. 4.

I have surely heard Ephraim bemoaning himself thus ; Thou hast chastised me, and I was chastised, as a bullock unaccustomed to the yoke : turn thou me, and I shall be turned ; for thou art the Lord my God.

Surely, after that I was turned, I repented ; and after that I was instructed, I smote upon my thigh ; I was ashamed, yea even confounded, because I did bear the reproach of my youth.

Since I spake against him, I do earnestly remember him still : therefore my bowels are troubled for him : I will surely have mercy on him, saith the Lord.—Jer. xxxi. 18, 19, 20.

I will visit their transgressions with the rod, and their iniquity with stripes :

Nevertheless, my loving-kindness will I not utterly take from him ; nor suffer my truth to fail.—Psalms lxxxix. 32, 33.

My son, despise not the chastening of the Lord, neither be weary of his correction :

For whom the Lord loveth he correcteth, even as a father the son, in whom, for all that, he delighteth.—Prov. iii. 11, 12.

Behold, happy is the man whom God correcteth ; therefore despise not thou the chastening of the Almighty :

For he maketh sore, and bindeth up ; he woundeth, and his hands make whole.

He shall deliver thee in six troubles ; yea, in seven shall no evil touch thee.—Job v. 17, 18, 19.

Forget not the exhortation which speaketh unto you as unto children : My son, despise not thou the chastening of the Lord ; nor faint when thou art rebuked of him :

For whom the Lord loveth, he chasteneth ; and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth.

If ye endure chastening, God dealeth with you as with sons ; for what son is he, whom the father chasteneth not ?

But if ye be without chastisement, whereof all are partakers, then are ye bastards, and not sons.

Furthermore, we have had fathers of our flesh, which corrected us, and yet we gave them reverence ; shall we not much rather be in subjection unto the Father of spirits, and live ?

For they, verily, for a few days, chastened us after their own pleasure ; but he for our profit, that we might be partakers of his holiness.

Now, no chastening for the present seemeth to be joyous, but grievous ; nevertheless, afterward it yieldeth the peaceable fruit of righteousness unto them which are exercised thereby.

Wherefore, lift up the hands which hang down, and the feeble knees.—Heb. xii. 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12.

And ye now therefore have sorrow ; but I will see you again, and your heart shall rejoice ; and your joy no man taketh from you.—John xvi. 22.

For a small moment have I forsaken thee, but with great mercies will I gather thee :

In a little wrath I hid my face from thee for a moment, but with everlasting kindness will I have mercy on thee, saith the Lord thy Redeemer.—Isaiah liv. 7, 8.

A little while, and ye shall see me.—John xvi. 16.

Blessed is the man whom thou chastenest, O Lord, and teachest him out of Thy law ;

That Thou mayest give him rest from the days of adversity.—Psalms xciv. 12, 13.

But when we are judged, we are chastened of the Lord, that we should not be condemned with the world.—1 Cor. xi. 32.

They that sow in tears, shall reap in joy.—Ps. cxxvi. 6.

The Lord hath chastened me sore ; but he hath not given me over unto death.—Ps. cxviii. 18.

My brethren, count it all joy, when ye fall into divers afflictions ;

Knowing this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience :

But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing.—James i. 2, 3, 4.

Blessed are they that mourn ; for they shall be comforted.—Matt. v. 4.

When I am weak, then am I strong.—2 Cor. xii. 10.

The Lord upholdeth all such as fall, and lifteth up all those that are down.—Psalms cxlv. 14.

He healeth those that are broken in heart, and giveth medicine to heal their sickness.—Psalms cxlvii. 3.

My flesh and my heart faileth ; but God is the strength of my heart, and my portion for ever.—Psalms lxxiii. 25.

Though mine outward man perish, yet let mine inward man be renewed day by day :

O, let this light affliction, which is but for a moment, work for me a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory !—2 Cor. iv. 16, 17.

PROPOSITIONS AND INFERENCES TO BE MADE TO THE SICK.

1. Concerning the Wisdom and Providence of God, in ordering all Afflictions in general, and this especially.

You are persuaded that no sickness, or cross, cometh by chance to any one :

But you believe, that it is God who sendeth them, without whose providence they fall not on us.

You acknowledge God to be most wise, and to suffer nothing to befall us, but when it is expedient that it should do so :

And therefore, as God hath sent this his visitation to you at this time, that it is expedient for you thus to be sick.

I KNOW, O Lord, that thy judgments are right, and that thou of very faithfulness hast caused me to be troubled.—Psalms cxix. 75.

2. Concerning the Fatherly Affection and Love of God.

You know and confess, that unto all, but unto Christians more especially, God beareth the affection of a Father towards his children.

You know also, that a father, whether he dote upon his child, or whether he chasten him, continueth a father in both cases ; and loveth him in the one no less than in the other.

Think the same of God, as touching yourself: that, while he gave you good days, he loved you ; and that, now he sendeth you some evil, he loveth you also ; and would not have sent this evil, but to be a cause unto you of greater good ; that, being called home thereby, you might be at peace with him.

BEFORE I was troubled, I went wrong : but now shall I keep thy word.—Psalm cxix. 67.

3. Concerning the Patience and Thankfulness required in the Sick.

You are not only to take this sickness patiently ; (I became dumb, and opened not my mouth ; for it was thy doing.—Psalm xxxix. 9. It is the Lord, let him do what seemeth him good.—1 Sam. iii. 18.)

But even to give him thanks for it, as for a wholesome medicine : (The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away ; as it pleaseth the Lord, so is it to come to pass ; blessed be the name of the Lord.—Job i. 21. I will take this cup of salvation, and call upon the name of the Lord.—Psalm cxvi. 12.)

Especially considering, that although we, in the time of our health, have forgotten him, yet is he so merciful, that he giveth us not over with the world ; but for all we have often grieved his Holy Spirit, and fallen from grace, he visiteth us again, and offereth it afresh unto us ;

And that, if it had not been his will to shew mercy by this chastisement, he could, and would, have suddenly taken you away with a quick destruction ; and not have given you this time to be-think yourself, and to seek and sue to him for grace.

WHEN I am judged, I am chastened of the Lord, that I should not be condemned with the world. — 1 Cor. xi. 32.

God, in his mercy, visiteth our offences with the rod.—Psalms lxxxix. 32.

It is of the Lord's mercies that we are not suddenly consumed :—Lament. iii. 22.

For he giveth us time and space.—Rev. ii. 21.

O, tarry thou the Lord's leisure ; be strong, and he shall comfort thine heart ; and put thou thy trust in the Lord.—Psalms xxvii. 16.

O, cast thy burthen upon the Lord, and he shall nourish thee, and shall not suffer the righteous to fall for ever.—Psalms lv. 23.

O, put your trust in him alway, ye people : pour out your hearts before him ; for God is our hope.—Psalms lxii. 8.

He will not alway be chiding, neither keepeth he his anger for ever.—Psalms ciii. 9.

In his wrath he will remember mercy.—Hab. iii. 2.

Heaviness may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning.—Psaln xxx. 5.

For a small moment have I forsaken thee, but with great mercies will I gather thee :

In a little wrath I hid my face from thee for a moment ; but with everlasting kindness will I have mercy on thee, saith the Lord thy Redeemer.—Isaiah liv. 7, 8.

4. Concerning the Contrition and Repentance of the Sick.

Do you acknowledge yourself not to have lived so well as you ought to have done ? but to have sinned, done amiss, and dealt wickedly ?

Do you call to mind the years of your life spent amiss, in the bitterness of your soul ?

Do you desire to have your mind illuminated by God, touching those sins you never knew ; or which you once knew, but have now forgotten : that you may repent of them ?

Do you desire to feel greater sorrow in your soul for your sins committed, than you do ? Would you be glad, if you did feel it ? And are you grieved that you feel it not ; that you are not more grieved ?

Is there any special sin, that lieth heavy on your conscience, for which you need, or would require, the benefit of private absolution ?

THOU with rebukes dost chasten man for sin, and makest his beauty to consume away, as it were a moth fretting a garment.—Psalm xxxix. 12.

There is no health in my flesh, because of thy displeasure: neither is there any rest in my bones, by reason of my sin.—Psalm xxxviii. 3.

Lord, be merciful unto me: heal my soul, for I have sinned against thee.—Psalm xli. 4.

Lord, I confess my wickedness, and am sorry for my sin.—Psalm xxxviii. 18.

I call to mind the mis-spent years of my life, in the bitterness of my soul.—Isa. xxxviii. 15.

My misdeeds prevail against me; O, be thou merciful unto my sin.—Psalm lxxv. 3.

For thy name's sake, O Lord, be merciful unto my sin; for it is great.—Psalm xxv. 10.

O, remember not the sins and offences of my youth; but according to thy mercy think thou upon me, O Lord, for thy goodness.—Verse 6.

Namely, O Lord, and specially in, be merciful unto me.

In this thing the Lord pardon thy servant:—2 Kings v. 18.

Lord, lay not this sin to my charge.—Acts vii. 60.

If thou, Lord, wilt be extreme to mark what is done amiss, O Lord, who may abide it?—Psalm cxxx. 3.

O, enter not into judgment with thy servant: for in thy sight shall no man living be justified.—Psalm cxliii. 2.

My confusion is daily before me, and the shame of my face hath covered me.—Psalm xliv. 16.

My heart is disquieted within me, and the fear of death is fallen upon me :

Fearfulness and trembling are come upon me, and an horrible dread hath overwhelmed me.—Psalm lv. 4, 5.

The Lord is nigh unto them that are of a contrite heart; and will save such as be of a humble spirit.—Psalm xxxiv. 18.

A broken and contrite heart, O God, shalt thou not despise.—Psalm li. 17.

REPENT you of these your sins ?

That is to say,—

Are you purposed to judge yourself for them, if you live?—1 Cor. xi. 31.

And to inflict upon yourself punishment for committing them, according as you shall be directed?—Lev. v. 18. 2 Cor. vii. 11.

Are you resolved, if God send you life hereafter, to amend and live more carefully ? and to avoid both those means and occasions, that may provoke you to sin again ? and those signs and marks, which testify that you delight in it ?

Do you solemnly promise thus much in the presence of God, his grace assisting you ?

Do you desire, if God send you health again, to be speedily put in mind thereof ?

TURN us then, O God our Saviour, and let thine anger cease from us.—Psalm lxxxv. 4.

5. Concerning the Belief of the Sick.

BELIEVE you the Christian Creed, or Confession of our most holy faith, once delivered to the saints ?

Believe you that you cannot be saved, except you did believe it ?

Are you glad in your soul, and do you give God hearty thanks, that in this faith you were born, that in it you have lived, and that you now die in the same ?

Do you yourself desire, and do you wish us to desire, at the hands of God, that this faith may not fail you, until the hour, and in the hour, of death ?

If your sense fail you, or if the pain of your disease, or weakness, otherwise so work with you, that you shall happen with your tongue to speak ought otherwise than this your faith or religion warranteth ; do you renounce all such words as none of yours ? and is it your will, that we account of them as not spoken by you ?

Is there in your mind any scruple, touching any matter of your faith or religion ?

LORD, I believe ; help thou mine unbelief.—Mark ix. 24.

6. Concerning the Sick party's Forgiveness of Offenders against him.

Do you forgive them, that in any manner have offended you, as freely as you would be forgiven at God's hand?

Do you likewise desire of God, that he would forgive them?

Such amends as they are bound to make you, in that they have offended you, are you content also to remit to them?

Are you willing that thus much be shewed them from you, that you have forgiven them freely and fully, and desire God to do the like?

FATHER, forgive them : for they knew not what they did.—Luke xxiii. 34.

7. Concerning the Sick party's Desire of Forgiveness from those whom he hath offended.

AND whereas you have yourself lived in the world, it cannot be but some you have offended : do you desire, therefore, that all such as you have offended, would pardon and forgive you?

Do you remember or call to mind any person or persons in particular, whom you have so offended?

Will you that so much be signified to them in your name, that you desire them to forgive you?

Inasmuch as offences against the Seventh Commandment, of begetting children by an act of adultery committed with the wife of another man ; and against the Eighth Commandment, of purloining men's goods ; and against the Ninth, of touching men's credit or good name ; are not by God forgiven, unless restitution be made to the parties wronged : are you ready and willing to restore, and make satisfaction, to such as you have wronged by thrusting in a child begotten by you, to deprive the true children of the party, begotten by him, of a child's part and portion ? and to such as you have defrauded of their goods ? and to those whom you have any way touched in their good name ? and that without any deceit or delay ?

Can you call to mind any persons in particular, whom you have so offended ?

PRAYERS, AND EXPRESSIONS OF THE SOUL'S
AFFIANCE IN GOD.

AND now, Lord, what is my hope ? truly my hope is even in thee.—Psalm xxxix. 8.

Thou art the hope of all the ends of the earth, and of them that remain in the broad sea.—Ps. lxxv. 5.

Though he slay me, yet will I trust in him.—Job xiii. 15.

Though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil.—Psalm xxiii. 4.

He knoweth whereof we are made ; he remembereth that we are but dust.—Psalm ciii. 14.

Consider that we are but flesh ; even a wind that passeth away, and cometh not again.—Psalm lxxviii. 40.

O, remember how short my time is : wherefore hast thou made all men for nought ?—Ps. lxxxix. 46.

Lord, consider my complaint ; for I am brought very low.—Psalm cxlii. 7.

Let my present misery more prevail to move thy compassion, than my sinful life past to provoke thine indignation.

O Lord, how long wilt thou be angry with thy servant that prayeth ?—Psalm lxxx. 4.

Behold, I shew the lowliness of a suppliant : shew not thou to me the rigour of a judge.

Let not, I beseech thee, the sentence of the judge press heavy upon him, whom the petition of a suppliant thus humbleth.

O, deliver not thine own inheritance unto the will of thine enemies.—Psalm lxxiv. 20.

I am thine ; O, save me.—Psalm cxix. 94.

I am thine ; carest thou not that I perish ?—Mark iv. 38.

Behold, O Lord, how that I am thy servant, and the son of thine handmaid ;—Psalm cxvi. 14.

Thy wicked and unprofitable servant ; (Matt. xviii. 32. Luke xvii. 10.) yet thy servant :

Thy lost unnatural child ; (Luke xv. 24.) yet thy child.

Though I have not shewn to thee the duty or affection of a son, yet do not thou cast from thee the natural kindness and compassion of a father.

A COMMENDATION OF THE SICK TO THE BLESSED TRINITY.

INTO thy hands I commit myself, as unto a faithful Creator.—1 Pet. iv. 19.

Receive, O Lord, thine own image, not made by any strange God, but by thyself, the only true and living God.

Forsake not, O Lord, the work of thine own hands.—Psalms cxxxviii. 8.

Lord, I am created in thine own image:—Gen. i. 27.

from the words of my complaint ?

O my God, I cry in the day-time, but thou hearest not ; and in the night-season also I have no audience.

Yet thou continuest holy, O thou worship of Israel.

Our fathers hoped in thee ; they trusted in thee, and thou didst deliver them.

They called upon thee, and were holpen ; they put their trust in thee, and were not confounded.

But thou art he that took me out of my mother's womb ; thou wast my hope when I hanged yet upon my mother's breasts.

Lord, let me make my prayer unto thee in an acceptable time.

Hear me, O God, in the multitude of thy mercies;
even in the truth of thy salvation.

Take me out of the mire, that I sink not: O, let me be delivered from them that seek my soul,
and out of the deep waters.

Let not the water-flood drown me, neither let the deep swallow me up; and let not the pit shut her mouth upon me.

Hear me, O Lord, for thy loving-kindness is comfortable; turn thee unto me according to the multitude of thy mercies.

Hide not thy face from thy servant, for I am in trouble: O, haste thee, and hear me.

Draw nigh unto my soul, and save it: O, deli-

O, forgive the offences of thy servants, and cover all their sins.

Take away all thy displeasure, and turn thyself from thy wrathful indignation.

Turn us then, O God our Saviour, and let thine anger cease from us.

thou stretch out thy wrath from one generation to another ?

Be merciful unto me, O Lord : for I will call daily upon thee.

Comfort the soul of thy servant : for unto thee O Lord, do I lift up my soul.

For thou, Lord, art good and gracious, and of great mercy unto all them that call upon thee.

Give ear, Lord, unto my prayer : and ponder the voice of my humble desires.

In the time of my trouble I will call upon thee ; for thou hearest me.

For thou, O Lord God, art full of compassion and mercy ; long-suffering, plenteous in goodness and truth.

O, turn thee then unto me, and have mercy upon me ; give thy strength unto thy servant, and help the son of thine handmaid.

Shew some good token upon me for good, that they who love thee may see it, and be glad ; because thou, Lord, hast holpen me and comforted me.

Psalm cxlii. Verses 1 to 7 ; 9.

I cried unto the Lord with my voice : yea, even unto the Lord did I make my supplication.

I poured out my complaints before him, and shewed him of my trouble.

When my spirit was in heaviness, thou knewest my path.

I looked also upon my right hand, and lo, there was none that could help me.

I had no place to flee unto ; and no man was able to relieve my soul.

I cried unto thee, O Lord, and said, Thou art my hope, and my portion in the land of the living.

Consider my complaint, for I am brought very low.

Bring my soul out of prison, that I may give thanks unto thy name ; which thing if thou wilt grant me, then shall the righteous resort unto my company.

Mine eyes look unto thee, O Lord God ; in thee is my trust ; O, cast not out my soul.

Psalm lxxxviii. Verses 1, 2 ; 9 to 16.

O Lord God of my salvation, I have cried day and night before thee : O, let my prayer enter into thy presence : incline thine ear unto my calling.

For my soul is full of trouble, and my life draweth nigh unto hell.

Lord, I have called daily upon thee ; I have stretched out my hands unto thee.

Dost thou shew wonders among the dead ? or shall the dead rise up again, and praise thee ?

Shall thy loving-kindness be shewed in the grave ? or thy faithfulness in destruction ?

Shall thy wonderful works be known in the dark ? and thy righteousness in the land where all things are forgotten ?

Unto thee do I cry, O Lord ; and early shall my prayer come before thee.

Lord, why abhorrest thou my soul ? why hidest thou thy face from me ?

I am in misery, and like unto him that is at the point to die ; even from my youth up thy terrors have I suffered with a troubled mind.

Thy wrathful displeasure goeth over me ; and the fear of thee hath undone me.

Psalm cxli. Verses 1, 2.

Lord, I will call upon thee ; haste thee unto me, and consider my voice when I cry unto thee.

Let my prayer be set forth in thy sight as the incense : let the lifting up of my hands be as an evening sacrifice.

Psalm lxxix. Verses 5 ; 8, 9.

Lord, how long wilt thou be angry ? shall thy jealousy burn like fire for ever ?

O, remember not mine old sins, but have mercy upon me ; for I am come to great misery.

Psalm cxliii. Verses 6, 7.

Hear me, O Lord, and that soon, for my spirit waxeth faint : hide not thy face from me, lest I be like unto them that go down into silence.

Psalm xiii. Verses 1 to 3.

How long wilt thou forget me, O Lord ? for ever ? how long wilt thou hide thy face from me ?

How long shall I seek counsel in my soul, and be so vexed in my heart ? how long shall mine enemies triumph over me ?

Consider and hear me, O Lord my God ; lighten mine eyes, that I sleep not in death.

Psalm xxx. Verses 6 to 11.

In my prosperity I said, I shall never be removed : thou, Lord, of thy goodness hadst made my state so strong.

Thou didst turn away thy face from me, and I was sore troubled.

Then cried I unto thee, O Lord ; and gat me to my Lord right humbly.

What profit is there in my blood, when I go down to the pit ?

Shall the dust give thanks unto thee ? or shall it declare thy truth ?

Hear, O Lord, and have mercy upon me ; Lord, be thou my helper.

Psalm lxxvii. Verses 1 to 10.

I will cry unto God with my voice, even unto God will I cry with my voice, and he shall hearken unto me.

In the time of my trouble I sought the Lord ; my sore ran and ceased not in the night season ; my soul refused comfort.

When I am in heaviness I will think upon God : when my heart is vexed, I will complain.

Thou holdest mine eyes waking ; I am so feeble that I can scarce speak.

I have considered the days of old, and the years that are past.

I call to remembrance my song ; and in the night
I commune with mine own heart, and search out my spirits.

Will the Lord absent himself for ever ? and will he be no more entreated ?

Is his mercy clean gone for ever ? and is his promise come utterly to an end for evermore ?

Hath God forgotten to be gracious ? and will he shut up his loving-kindness in displeasure ?

And I said, It is mine own infirmity : but I will remember the years of the right hand of the most Highest.

2 Chron xx. Verse 12.

O God, there is no might in us, neither know we what to do ; but we lift up our eyes unto thee.

Out of the deep have I called unto thee, O Lord ;
Lord, hear my voice.

O let thine ears consider well the voice of my complaint.

Psalm lxxix. Verse 12.

O let the sorrowful sighing of the prisoners come before thee ; according to the greatness of thy power, preserve thou those that are appointed to die.

A PRAYER BY THE PRIEST,

Begging Pardon for his own Unworthiness, and Acceptance of his Devotions for the Sick.

O Lord, it is a great presumption, that one sinner should dare to commend another to thy divine Majesty ; especially, the greater, the less ; and who would not fear to undertake it ?

But thy commandment it is, by thy holy Apostle St. James, that when any one is sick, the elders should be called for, and should pray for the sick person ; and their prayers thou dost promise to receive, and to save and forgive the sins of those so prayed for.—James v. 14, 15.

And now behold, O Lord, we that are no way meet, but unworthy, utterly unworthy, to sue for ought for ourselves, yet, when charity and compassion urge us, are enforced to become suitors to thee for others; even, O Lord, for this thy servant, now ready to depart this world.

In thee we hope, in thee we trust, to thee we entreat and pray, in all meekness of manner, and from the bottom of our hearts.

O Lord, that which thou mightest justly deny to our unworthiness, deny not, we beseech thee; to thine own gracious goodness.

O Lord, forgive us our sins, our great and grievous sins; oft, and many times committed; long, and many years most grievously continued; that so we may be meet to pray for others; and that so we may make our prayer unto thee in an acceptable time.

Graciously look upon our afflictions.

Pitifully behold the sorrows of our hearts.

Mercifully forgive the sins of thy people.

Favourably with mercy hear our prayers.

Both now and ever vouchsafe to hear us, O Christ.

Graciously hear us, O Christ; graciously hear us, O Lord Christ.—Liturgy.

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee not to lay to his charge, what in the fierceness of his wrath, or in the eagerness of an angry spirit, he hath committed against thee :

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee not to lay to his charge, what in vain and idle words, in the looseness and slipperiness of the tongue, he hath committed against thee ;

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to make him partaker of all thy mercies and promises in CHRIST JESUS :

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to vouchsafe unto his soul the estate of joy, happiness, and immortality, with all thy blessed saints, in thy heavenly kingdom :

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to grant unto his body rest and peace, and a part in the blessed resurrection unto life and glory :

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

SON of God, we beseech thee to hear us.

O Lord God, Lamb of God, that takest away the sins of the world,

Have mercy upon thy servant.

Thou that takest away the sins of the world,

Have mercy upon him.

Thou that takest away the sins of the world,

Grant him thy peace.

Thou that sittest on the right hand of God the Father,

Have mercy upon him.

Lord, have mercy upon him.

Christ, have mercy upon him.

Lord, have mercy upon him.

Our Father, which art in heaven, &c.

O Lord, deal not with him after his sins ;

Neither reward him according to his iniquities.

O God, merciful Father, that despisest not the sighing of a contrite heart, nor the desire of such as be sorrowful, mercifully assist our prayers, that we make before thee in all our troubles and adversities, whensoever they oppress us ; at such times, especially, when our greatest and most grievous extremities are ready to oppress us. And graciously hear us, O Lord, that those evils, those illusions, terrors, and assaults, which thine or our enemy worketh against us, be brought to nought, and by the providence of thy goodness they may be dispersed ; that we, thy servants, being swallowed up by no temptations, may evermore give thanks unto thee in thy Holy Church, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

AN HUMBLE RECOGNITION OF HUMAN FRAILTY,
And a Deprecation against Falling from God.

(From the Burial Service.)

IN the midst of life we are in death: of whom, then, may we seek for succour, but of thee, O Lord, who for our sins art most justly displeased with us?

Yet, O Lord most holy, O God most mighty, O holy and most merciful Father, deliver us not over to the bitter pains of eternal death.

Thou knowest, Lord, the secrets of our hearts; shut not the ears of thy mercy to our prayer: but spare us, Lord most holy, O God most mighty, O immortal and most merciful Father, thou most worthy Judge eternal, suffer us not in our last hour for any pains of death to fall from thee.

O, suffer him not to be utterly confounded for ever.—1 Pet. ii. 6.

Though he hath sinned, yet he seeketh thee:
and thou, Lord, never failest them that seek thee.
—Psalm ix. 10.

Though he hath sinned, yet he cometh to thee:
and of them that come to thee, thou castest none out.—John vi. 37.

II. O LORD,

Let not the guiltiness of a sinner more prevail to condemn, than the gracious goodness of a most merciful Father to acquit and pardon.

O, let not the unrighteousness of man make the goodness of God without effect.—Rom. iii. 3.

O Lord, do not so remember the ingratitude of this thy child, as thereby to forget the compassion and kindness of a Father.

Do not so think upon our sins, as thereby to forget thine own nature and property, which is always to have mercy.—Liturgy.

Do not so remember our sins, as thereby to forget thine own name, which is JESUS, a most kind and loving Saviour.

III. O LORD,

If in our life thy life hath not sufficiently appeared, yet let not thy death in our death also lose its full power and effect.

Suffer not, O Lord, in both, so great a price to perish.

Lose not, O Lord, that which thou hast saved ; since thou camest to save that which was lost.—Matt. xviii. 11.

That which was so dear for thee to save, suffer not to be lost as a thing of no value.

A PRAYER FOR MERCY AND DIVINE ASSISTANCE, thou usest to do unto those that love thy name.—

him.—Psalm lxxi. 8.

his heart, let thy comforts refresh his soul.—Psalm xciv. 19.

him.—Isaiah xxxviii. 14.

O Lord, let thy strength be made perfect in his weakness.—2 Cor. xii. 9.

Let no temptation oppress him, but such as is common to thy children : but, as thou art faithful, O God, suffer him not to be tempted, above what he is able : but, with the temptation, good Lord, give a happy issue, that he may be able to overcome it.—1 Cor. x. 13.

O Lord, though he be afflicted on every side, yet let him not be distressed ; though in want of some of thy comforts, yet not of all ; though chastened, yet not forsaken ; though cast down, yet not destroyed.—2 Cor. iv. 8, 9.

A PRAYER FOR THE GRACE OF GOD, AND PARDON
FOR THE SINS OF THE SICK.

REMEMBER thy servant, O Lord, according to the favour that thou bearest unto thy children ; O, visit him with thy salvation ;

O, remember not his former sins, but have mercy upon him, O Lord, and that soon ; for he is come to great extremity :

Call to remembrance, O Lord, thy tender mercies, and thy loving-kindnesses which have been ever of old ;

Return, O Lord, how long? and be gracious unto thy servants.—Verse 13.

I have sinned: what shall I do unto thee, O thou Preserver of men? Why hast thou set me as a mark against thee, so that I am a burthen to myself?—Job vii. 20.

me my righteousness : say concerning me, O Lord, Deliver him, for I have found a ransom.—Job xxxiii. 26 ; 24.

Yet, if thou slay me, will I trust in thee.—Job xiii. 15.

My foot hath slipped ; let thy mercy, O Lord, hold me up.—Psalms xciv. 18.

Isaiah.

Behold, thou art wroth ; for we have sinned :

We have been as an unclean thing ; and all our righteousness as filthy rags :

We all do fade as a leaf ; and our iniquities, like the wind, have taken us away.

But now, O Lord, thou art our Father ; we are the clay, and thou art the Potter ; we all are the work of thy hand.

Be not wroth very sore, O Lord, neither remember our iniquity for ever : see, we beseech thee ; remember, we are all thy people.—Isaiah lxiv. 5, 6 ; 8, 9.

Jeremiah.

O Lord, our iniquities testify against us ; our backslidings are many ; we have sinned against thee.

O Lord, the Hope of Israel, the Saviour thereof in time of trouble, forsake us not.—Jer. xiv. 7 ; 9 ; 8.

We have sinned, O Lord, we have committed iniquity, we have done wickedly : yea, we have rebelled, even by departing from thy precepts, and from thy judgments.

O Lord, righteousness belongeth unto thee, but unto us confusion and shame of face, because of all the trespasses that we have trespassed against thee.

Yet mercies and forgivenesses belong to thee, O Lord our God, though we have rebelled against thee.

O Lord, according to all thy righteousness, I beseech thee, let thine anger and thy fury be turned away from me ; and cause thy face to shine upon thy servant.

O my God, incline thine ear and hear ; open thine eyes, and behold my desolations : for we do not present our supplications before thee for our righteousnesses, but for thy manifold and great mercies.

The good things which I would, I do not: the evil which I would not, that I do.—Verse 15.

Yet I feel another law in my nature, warring against the law of my mind, and bringing me into captivity to the law of sin.—Verses 22, 23.

O wretched man that I am! Who shall deliver me from the body of this death?—Verse 24.

But this is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief.—1 Tim. i. 15.

St. Peter.

We have spent the time past of our life, after the lusts of the Gentiles, walking in lasciviousness, lusts, revellings, banquettings, and other excesses.—1 Pet. iv. 3.

But thou hast redeemed us, O Lord, by the precious blood of Christ, the undefiled Lamb.—1 Pet. i. 18, 19.

But, Lord, let thy mercy rejoice against thy justice.—James ii. 13.

A CONFESSION OF SINS,

According to the Divisions of the Decalogue.

I.

TOUCHING thee, O Lord, I have been full of roving imaginations, and evil thoughts.

I have not studied to seek and know thee as I ought to do.

Knowing thee, I have not glorified thee, nor given thanks to thee accordingly.—Rom. i. 21.

I have doubted thy promises, and distrusted thy help.

I have made flesh mine arm (Jer. xvii. 5.), and hoped for prosperity from man, rather than from thee.

I have not performed the duty of invocation with that reverence I owe to thee.

I have not been 'thankful; and especially not for thy chastisements.

II.

I have not worshipped thee in spirit and in truth. ,
—John iv. 24.

I have drawn near to thee with my lips, but my , heart hath been far from thee.—Mark vii. 6.

I have been more careful of the outward and , ceremonial, than of the inward and spiritual, part of thy worship.

III.

I have, without due regard, taken thy name into my mouth.

I have, with rash oaths and eager execrations, oftentimes abused it.

I have not given occasion to others to sanctify thy name; but have caused it to be evil-spoken of through mine own evil dealing.—2 Pet. ii. 2.

I have not duly regarded and revered those things, whereon thy name is imprinted.

IV.

I have not brought that care which I should have brought to thy sabbath and thy sanctuary.

I have not hesitated to absent myself from thy ,
holy assemblies, without sufficient cause.—Heb.
x. 25.

I have not spent the days assigned to holy exercises, chiefly upon them; but have followed too much mine own private business in them.

I have been content in them with the use of the means alone, without any practice at all.

V.

I have not so reverently spoken, nor so dutifully carried myself, toward some whom thou hast placed over me, as was meet I should do.

I have not so carefully prayed for them, as was required of me.

I have not opposed such as used irreverent terms toward them :

Especially toward those, who have had the government of my soul in charge.

VI.

I have not wished or provided for the good of my neighbour as I should have done ; but rather been angry, quarrelsome, and ill-disposed toward him ; and sought revenge upon every light injury.

I have not had that compassion on the poor that I should have had ; nor ministered to their necessities :

I have not defended them, as I might, against the wrongs of others.

I have not rejoiced in the good success of my neighbour ; but envied his welfare.

VII.

I have not possessed my vessel in sanctification and honour (1 Thess. iv. 4.) ; nor preserved it from pollution, as the temple of God should be.—

1 Cor. iii. 16, 17.

I have suffered my fancy to wander licentiously.

Mine ears and tongue I have not kept, as I should do.

I have not eschewed the occasions of lust, nor made a covenant with mine eyes.—Job xxxi. 1.

I have not kept under my body, nor brought it into subjection with abstinence.—1 Cor. ix. 27.

I have more studiously, and with more cost, administered to my flesh than to my spirit.

VIII.

I have not reckoned godliness to be gain (1 Tim. vi. 6.); nor been content with my estate (Phil. iv. 11.); but have wished for higher.

I have not been so exact in paying and in dealing with those I have dealt withal, as in justice I was bound to be.

I have by undue means interverted, to mine own use, that which was not mine.

I have not been willing, out of that, whereof I had more than enough, to bestow on the relief of the needy.

IX.

I have not been so studious of speaking the truth, as I should have been.

I have been desirous to seem, and to be reputed, more than I was.

I have not had that care for the good name of my brother, that I was bound to have.

I have not so hated flattery, as I should have done.

I have not so upheld and defended the truth, as was meet I should do.

X.

I have been full of wandering desires, wicked affections, unlawful concupiscences, evil suspicions and surmises, and inordinate lusts, touching my neighbour, and that which is his.

O, put thy trust in God; for I shall yet give him thanks: for he is the help of my countenance, and my God.—Psalm xlii. 6, 7; 14, 15. and xliii. 5, 6.

Return then unto thy rest, O my soul; for the Lord hath been gracious to thee.—Psalm cxvi. 7.

If the Lord had not helped me, it had not failed but my soul had been put to silence:

In the midst of the troubles that I had in my heart, thy comforts have refreshed my soul.—Psalm xciv. 17; 19.

Nevertheless, though I am sometimes afraid, yet put I my trust in the Lord.—Psalm lvi. 3.

Nevertheless, my soul, wait thou still upon God, for of him cometh my salvation:

He verily is my hope, and my strength; he is my defence, so that I shall not greatly fall.—Psalm lxii. 5, 6.

Let us go with boldness unto the throne of grace, that we may find mercy in time of need.—Heb. iv. 16.

Frailty, and of Divine Providence and Mercy.*

O LORD of life and death, of sickness and health,
and of all things thereunto belonging ;

by whose appointment we die :

Our time is in thy hand ; (Psalm xxxi. 17.) and unto thee belong the issues of death.—Psalm

For the comfortless troubles' sake of the needy, and for the deep sighing of the poor,—Psalm

The greatness of whose goodness is not shut up under any time ;

Who callest into thy vineyard even at the eleventh hour ;—Matt. xx. 6, 7.

Who rulest not with rigour, but governest with meekness the things thou hast made :

Thou that killest and makest alive ; that bringest down to the grave, and bringest up again ;—1 Sam.

Thou that hatest nothing which thou hast made ;
—Wisd. xi. 24.

That hast concluded all under sin ; that thou mightest have mercy upon all :—Rom. xi. 32.

O Lord, the Saviour and the saving health of all thy faithful ;

The Fountain of grace and goodness ;

Hear, O Lord, and have mercy ;

Look down from Heaven ;

Behold and visit ;

Visit with thy salvation.—Psalm lxxx. 14.

APPENDIX.

From the Volume of English MS., mentioned in the Preface.

1. A PRAYER FOR THE KING.

KINGS are Gods upon earth ; yet, O Lord, they are but thy servants.

They rule kingdoms ; yet the chariot of their empire turneth over and over, unless thou teach their hands how to hold the reins.

More than men they are amongst men ; yet less than themselves, if they break thy laws.

Since, then, they are thy stewards, and trusted with much, it is a great reckoning to which they must answer.

Lay therefore, O Lord, thy right hand on the head of our gracious sovereign Lord, King Charles.

Fasten his crown close to his temples, that no treason may lift it off ; bind it round about with olive branches, and let peace dwell under the circle of it.

Plant a guard of angels about his bed, and a troop of saints about his throne, that his sleep may be golden slumbers, and his watchings divine meditations.

Pour, O Lord, thy graces into his bosom, that all his actions may advance thy glory.

Make him, O God, a priest in thy Church, a father in the commonwealth, a shepherd over thy flock, a captain in thy quarrel, and, O my God, a conqueror in thy wars.

Crown him, O Lord, with number of years, as thou didst crown his youth with the inheritance of kingdoms.

Let the dial of his life move slowly on, and suffer not his old age to strike, till those that now stand up about him, like the tender branches of the vine, be seen growing on the banks of this same kingdom, like rows of tall cedars.

Let his reign, O Lord, be like the reign of Methusalem, his knowledge like the wisdom of Solomon, his offspring blessed like the seed of Abraham, and suffer not the face of thine anointed to be cast down.—2 Chron. vi. 42.

Give him, O God, David's soul, but suffer him not to fall into David's sins; teach him to number his people, not to make thee angry with him, but to make him love them, and them him, and thee, O Lord, them all.

All the strings of their hearts tie close to his bosom, that they may all move as to one centre; that their happiness may be his fortress, their prosperity his riches, the hour of his pleasure the sweetest of their contentment.

These, and what other benefits be fit for so good, so sweet a prince, grant him, O Lord, for the safety of thy church, the peace and honour of this kingdom, and the relief of thy now poor and much afflicted people; even for Jesus Christ's sake. Amen.

2. A PRAYER TO BE USED IN THESE DANGEROUS TIMES OF WAR.

O ALMIGHTY and just God, which art the Author of all goodness, look down upon the distressed estate of us thy servants, ready to be devoured with the sword, and to be utterly rooted out of the land of the living by reason of our many and manifold transgressions.

Lord, we have sinned and gone astray from thy commandments; and have delayed to repent our iniquities: wherefore in thy justice thou visitest our transgressions with the rod, and our sins with scourges.—Psalm lxxxix. 32.

We have put behind our backs all thy favourable and fatherly admonitions, and have slighted all the opportunities of amending our sinful and wicked lives; and therefore are these plagues deservedly come upon us.—Gen. xlii. 21.

Yet, O Lord, with thee there is mercy, and with thee is plenteous redemption.—Psalm cxxx. 7.

Thou, O Lord, art able to bring our souls from
